ATTEMPT TO WRECK EXPRESS

IRISH OUTRAGE PLOT DISCOVERED IN TIME

INCIDENT NEAR WATERFORD

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, Aug. 24.
The lives of the passengers in the Rossare Express, including many English tourists in the south of Ireland, were endangered to-day by an apparent attempt to wreck the train.

Fortunately, the peril was discovered and the express brought to a standstill.
The discovery was made three or four hours before the express was due to pass the spot chosen by the wreckers for their fell enterprise. They had removed a section of the rails close to the level-crossing near Waterford.
Not only had the rails been torn up, but the telegraph poles had been sawn through and the telegraph wires cut.
The express was delayed for over two hours while the line was being repaired.—Reuter Special.

BOMB EXPLODES IN WANCHAI

MYSTERY INCIDENT LAST NIGHT

A bomb exploded last night on the stairway of No. 85, Jaffee Road, Wanchai, but no damage seems to have been done.
Examination of the remnants indicate that the bomb was initially detonated by some sort of acid and that it was of an incendiary type rather than explosive.
It was apparently designed to set the place on fire. The incident occurred at about eleven o'clock.

SHANGHAI "WAR SCARE" RUMOURS

Japanese Warships At Dairen

Shanghai, Aug. 24.
According to a report from foreign sources, thirty Japanese warships are concentrating in Dairen waters, while the number of Japanese army planes at Harbin, mostly bombers, have been increased to seventy.
Asked for confirmation of this report, a spokesman of the Japanese Legation stated that it might be correct, but he did not believe that it had any connection with the C.E.R. dispute.—Central News.

WORLD SCULLING CONTESTS

TITLE HOLDER ROWS BRILLIANTLY

Toronto, Aug. 24.
In eliminating races for the world's sculling championship over a three miles course in Lake Ontario, Miller (American) and Pearce (Canada) the holder, qualified for the final.
Miller defeated Bert Barry, the English sculler, by three-quarters of a length in 21 mins. 24 1/5th seconds.
Pearce defeated Eric Phipps, son of the King's Bargemaster, by twenty lengths in 19 mins. 38 1/2 seconds.
The winners meet on Friday next week.—Reuter.

YANKEE WINS AGAIN

WEETAMORE MEETS WITH MISHAP

AMERICA'S CUP TRIALS

(Special to "Telegraph")

Newport, R. I. Aug. 24.
It seems certain once again that the Boston yacht, Yankee, which will have Mr. Charles Francis Adams at the wheel, will be the defender of the America's Cup.

After her victory over Rainbow yesterday, the Yankee to-day defeated Weetamore by one minute and eleven seconds, in the second of the final trial races being held to decide which is to have the honour of resisting Mr. Sopwith's Endeavour challenge.

The race to-day was over a thirty-mile windward and leeward course. The Yankee led by two minutes at the halfway stage, but soon after turning to leeward, the Weetamore's spinnaker was blown to ribbons.

The crew, however, soon set another spinnaker and made up three minutes on the leeward side.—Reuter Special.

EXTENSION OF NAVAL PACT

SUGGESTION IN WASHINGTON

(Special to "Telegraph")

Washington, Aug. 24.
It is authoritatively learned that the State Department has been studying a suggestion for the postponement of the 1935 naval conference.

It is understood that the proposal is that the existing treaty should be extended for two years because of the extreme difficulty in the present circumstances of political tension of drawing up a new treaty next year.

There is reason to believe that the State Department is favourably disposed to the idea, although there seems to be some mystery about the origin of the proposal. Enquiries in London drew a denial that the British Government had tentatively proposed the extension of the old treaty.—United Press.

LORD BARNBY'S MISSION TO MANCHUKUO

POLITICAL STATUS AGAIN REFUTED

MISINTERPRETED IN JAPAN

LETTER TO THE "MORNING POST"

London, Aug. 25.

Lord Barnby, the leader of the F.B.I. trade mission which is shortly to visit Manchuria, has again had to issue a denial that the mission will concern itself in any way with political issues.

In a letter to the Morning Post, referring to an article appearing therein quoting an interview in which he is reported by the London representative of a Japanese newspaper as having expressed certain opinions about the political relations of Great Britain with Japan and Manchukuo, Lord Barnby says he feels that some misunderstanding must have arisen about the matter.

"The Mission which I shall have the honour of leading to Japan and Manchukuo is not concerned in any way with political questions which are entirely outside its scope."

NOT QUALIFIED.

"Neither am I personally qualified to express any opinion on political questions affecting the relations of Great Britain with other countries. I feel it is right to make this quite clear in order to avoid any misinterpretation of the objects of the Mission which is proceeding to the Far East."

"We are going there in an entirely unofficial capacity for business purposes and also in the hope of making friendly contact between the business communities of the respective countries."—Reuter.

MISSION LEAVING TO-DAY.

London, Aug. 24.
The Industrial Mission under the leadership of Lord Barnby will leave London to-morrow for Manchukuo to study conditions there and to ascertain whether British industry can cooperate with local interests in its development.

No political significance attaches to the visit of the Mission whose four members have been closely associated with the conduct of Federation which is the most powerful organisation of its kind in Britain and represents British industry in general.

The Mission's programme includes a call of courtesy and goodwill in Japan with the object of establishing friendly contact with the representative organisations of Japanese industry and commerce.

VISITING CHINA.

The members of Mission will probably also take the opportunity of visiting some of principal centres of Chinese trade. The importance of establishing closer personal relations between the heads of industries in Britain and corresponding leaders abroad is generally recognised here and was emphasised by the prominent industrialist, Sir Harry McGowan, on his return from the Far East some months ago.

London newspapers express the hope that the work of the present Mission may help to prepare the ground for more specialised intercourse later.—British Wireless.

THE PERFECT SILENCER

SCIENCE AND NOISE REDUCTION

GOVERNMENT'S CLOSE INTEREST

London, Aug. 24.

A determined effort is being made to lessen the noise of London streets at night and as from Monday next any motorist who within a radius of five miles of Charing Cross sounds a horn between 11.30 p.m. and 7 a.m. will render himself liable to a fine.

The Transport Minister, Mr. L. Hore Belisha, has also appointed a committee of seven specialists, presided over by the well-known engineer, Sir Henry Fowler, to consider and report on the principal causes of noise in operation of mechanically-propelled vehicles and the steps which can effectively be taken to limit it.

The Committee includes representatives of the motorcar and motorcycle manufacturers, scientists from the National Physical Laboratory and officials of the Transport Ministry.

Sir Henry Fowler is the Chairman of the Committee of the British Association which has been considering the question of the reduction of noise and has already carried out important investigations on the subject.

SPECIAL EXPERIMENTS.

The Committee was set up at last year's British Association meeting and its experiments have been carried out at Southampton University and the National Physical Laboratory.

The results will be publicly disclosed at the Association's meeting at Aberdeen next month which will be attended by the Transport Minister. It is understood that the scientists have perfected a silencer which reduces the noise of motor engines to a minimum without lessening their power.—British Wireless.

Another heavy land-slide occurred in Belcher Street at about 8 o'clock last night. This is the second within the last two days, and the road has been completely blocked to traffic.

ARIZONA FARM THREATS

BRITISH CONSUL INTERESTED

VIOLENCE PLAN RUMOURS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(The Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages, Ordinances, 1934. Received August 25, 10.12 a.m.)

New York, Aug. 24.

The Arizona farm troubles seem likely to involve other countries besides Japan.

A message from Phoenix, Arizona, indicates that the British Consulate is beginning to take a very keen interest, as well as the Japanese Consulate.

They are understood to be investigating rumours in the neighbourhood that the farmers are definitely planning a campaign of violence against all foreigners farming in Arizona, including Hindus, British and Japanese.

The Arizona farmers allege that these people are working in defiance of the State law prohibiting aliens from leasing or owning land.

The Governor, Mr. Moer, declares he is satisfied that there is no danger of violence. Aliens will be prosecuted if they are violating the law.

Irish and Scotmen all of whom are working farms on a share basis do not violate the law, but the Hindus and the Japanese farmers face prosecution.—United Press.

GIRL'S PARENTS TIP TO POLICE

HOW DILLINGER AIDE WAS SHOT

RIDDLED IN THE STREET

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages, Ordinances, 1934. Received August 25, 8.18 a.m.)

St. Paul, Aug. 24.

Like Dillinger, his former chief, Homer Van Meter, who was slain yesterday, died because of a woman.

Van Meter has been long sought by the police of a dozen States and Federal agents as the most dangerous and ruthless of Dillinger's accomplices in crime, but they had been unable to gain any clue to his whereabouts until yesterday.

He had apparently been hiding out in St. Paul, but had found the opportunity to form an association with a local girl.

When her horrified parents discovered the relationship and found out who Van Meter was, they secretly notified the police.

His residence was watched and Van Meter was shot down, literally riddled with bullets, when he appeared in the street.

It may be recalled that six members of the notorious Dillinger gang have been shot down. Two others are now awaiting execution. One important member and two minor hangers-on of the gang remain uncaptured.—United Press.

SHARP RISE IN GOLD PRICE

HEAVY PREMIUM OVER U.S. DOLLAR

London, Aug. 24.

The price of gold in London rose sharply to-day by 1/2 to 139/3d per fine ounce and is now only ninepence below the record high price touched on February 5, following President Roosevelt's announcement of the dollar devaluation plan.

To-day's price included a premium calculated at 2/8d over the dollar and 7d over the French franc.

The rise in price stimulated interest in South African mining shares on the stock market and prices strengthened.—British Wireless.

GLASGOW

Buster Keaton, one of Hollywood's best known comedians—the only funny man whose smile has never been registered by a film camera—made a surprise visit to Glasgow recently to begin a honeymoon tour with his wife, Mae Scriven.

A fruit boat, the California Express, which has limited passenger accommodation, landed the couple unexpectedly at Prince's Dock in the afternoon, at the end of a 6,000 miles voyage from San Pedro, near Los Angeles.

Buster's wife revealed that he intends to smile in his next film, which will be shot in a Parisian studio. The smile is a condition of his contract.

He has been in the business since he was 21, and he has never once smiled in a film, so that a grin on the solemn Keaton mask would be almost as great a novelty as the sound of Charlie Chaplin's voice.

Mrs. Keaton made another revelation. Buster, she says, has experimented with a broad grin in some of the Hollywood films, but before they reached the public the laughing parts were cut out.

In the French picture Buster will be shown as a convict who is mistaken for a gangster chief. The production will take six weeks to complete. He and his wife will return to their home at Beverly Hills, near Hollywood, on September 1.

"Probably we shall come back to Scotland just to see Loch Lomond and Edinburgh," said Buster. "Sure!" agreed Mrs. Keaton.

There is nothing in this 40-year-old visitor's appearance or manner to suggest the comedian. He is quiet and serious, but obviously just as enthusiastic as ever about winning back the place in the forefront of film favourites which he once held along with Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd.

"Yep," he said, "I have lost a bit of ground, but I reckon I can get it back again."

Mr. Keaton was last in London in August 1930. "You have made a lot of progress with British films since then," he said. "That 'Henry VIII' film gave Hollywood a terrific jolt. There is no reason why you should not turn out pictures as good as, if not better than, ours."

"If I get an offer I will be only too happy to play in a British-made comedy."

After touring Glasgow in a motor car he left in the evening for London by the Night Scot, and intends to cross to Paris during the next few days.

Buster's first wife was Natalie Talmadge, sister of Norma Talmadge, both of whom were silent film stars.

NOT SO BLACK AS PAINTED.

The Rev. William J. Cantwell, Roman Catholic Bishop of Los Angeles, has arrived in London flushed with the success of his crusade against Hollywood's sex pictures.

The Bishop began his crusade 18 months ago, and has now secured pledge from Hollywood producers that they will clean up the screen.

"The stars," he says, "suffer from publicity. Everything they do is a newspaper topic in the States. Their chief fault is they have no idea of how to spend money, and little idea of its value. They do, of course, dissipate their lives with their money, but they are by no means so black as they are painted."

CUFF WORTH £20,000.

Fred Astaire was dressing leisurely in his Hollywood home one morning when he missed the evening shirt he had worn the previous night. He rang for his valet, and

KEIR HARDIE
STATUE*L.C.C. APPROACHED FOR SITE

The trustees of the Keir Hardie Memorial Fund have approached the London County Council for a suitable site in the Metropolis for the erection of a statue of Keir Hardie.

It was originally intended that permission should be sought for the statue to be placed in the House of Commons, but unanimous consent of the responsible authorities could not be secured. It is expected that no difficulties will be raised by the L.C.C., and the work will be commenced as soon as the detailed arrangements can be made.

The sum of money in the fund is close on £5,000, and the expected cash balance after the statue is finished will be devoted to providing financial assistance to Socialist pioneers who may be in need.

The trustees of the fund are the Prime Minister, Mr. James Macdonald, M.P., Lord Snowden, the Rt. Hon. Fred Jowett, and Mr. Francis Johnson. The first four succeeded Hardie as chairman of the I.L.P., and Mr. Johnson as general secretary of the party was associated in office with each of them, including Keir Hardie.

was told the shirt had been sent to the laundry.

Leaping into his car, he dashed through the streets of Hollywood to the laundry. There, amid the whirring belts and machinery he found the shirt, just as it was about to be placed in the wash tub.

On the shirt cuff were a few almost illegible scrawls. They were jottings for a step-dance which Mr. Astaire had made while listening to the broadcast of a boxing match. The studio values them at £20,000.

"GHOST VISION"FORMER TRAGEDY
RE-ENACTED

A "ghost vision" which occurred to a girl in Kingsway, a busy London thoroughfare, recently, re-enacted a tragedy which happened almost at the same spot over a year ago, and of which the girl was unaware.

While walking in Kingsway, the girl gave a sudden cry, threw up her arms, and collapsed.

She was rushed into a chemist's shop, where, after a time, she recovered.

Her explanation of the incident was remarkable.

She was walking back to her place of business, she said, when she got the impression that someone—"It seemed to be a girl"—had fallen from the window of a high building, landing at her feet.

The shock caused her to cry out and collapse, and she was in the chemist's shop for 20 minutes before she was considered well enough to be allowed to go.

"Nothing of the sort has happened to me before," she said, "and I can't understand how I got the idea of a body falling near me."

It was learned, afterwards, that about 18 months ago a girl did fall, with fatal results, from one of the upper windows of a high building, practically at the spot where the girl collapsed.

Curiously enough, the latter girl had never heard of the tragedy which, by some peculiar delusion, she saw re-enacted in Kingsway's busy scene.

LABEL ACTION SETTLED*CAPTAIN SUES AUTHOR OF A NOVEL

A libel action concerning a passage in "A Glastonbury Romance," written by Mr. John Cowper Powys, of Hillsdale, Columbia County, U.S.A., was settled in the King's Bench Division, London, recently. The plaintiff was Captain Gerald William Hodgkinson, of Woakey Hole Caves, Somerset, and he sued Mr. Powys and the publishers and printers, John Lane (The Bodley Head), Ltd., London, and Ebenezer Baulis & Son (Ltd.), London.

Mr. Norman Birkett, K.C., for Captain Hodgkinson, told the Court that "by the good sense of all the parties the case had been settled on terms."

The case arose in a rather remarkable way out of a rather remarkable book written by Mr. Powys. It concerned some famous caves in Somerset—the Woakey Hole Caves—which were visited by thousands of people each year.

These caves had been in Captain Hodgkinson's family for at least three generations. They were introduced into the book, and there was also a character called Philip Crow.

Anybody reading the book might identify Captain Hodgkinson with Philip Crow. It was not necessary now to indicate points of resemblance, but the book spoke of the owner of the caves and of an aeroplane flight to the caves by the owner.

Captain Hodgkinson was a distinguished pilot in the war, said Mr. Birkett, and the character in the book could and would by ordinary readers who knew him be identified with him.

"The point is that Philip Crow in the book is a man of the most immoral and most depraved character," continued Mr. Birkett, "and a section of the book dealt with the actual seduction of his cousin in the actual cave itself. Further parts of the book deal with the visits of Philip Crow to a house of ill repute, and he is described as the father of an illegitimate child."

Mr. Justice Acton stayed all further proceedings, and ordered payment out of the sum in Court.

SOPHIE KERR'S LATEST SUCCESS IN ROMANTIC PROBLEM FICTION "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

CHAPTER XXXVIII

It seemed to Jane that Amy was growing tall, taller, standing far above her, tall and sharp like a long shining sword. Involuntarily she stepped back, put the desk between them. Then Amy's voice, sharp and keen like a sword's edge, pitiless, despairing—"If I could kill you, Jane Terry," said this voice, "I believe I would. To tell a lie like that, when he is sick and can't defend himself, to say you love him. . . I've always thought perhaps you did love him, but you don't. If you loved him, if you loved him one least bit, you wouldn't try to make him out a cheat, and—unfaithful—and low—and common—"

The Colonel and Professor Lowe loomed up behind her. "What's this?" asked the Colonel. "What's the matter?—good morning, Miss Terry."

And Professor Lowe—"Why, how do you do, Jane?" But Jane had picked up the bag and vanished from the room by another door, without a word, flying from such terror as she had never known before, abject physical terror. She had felt Amy's will to kill her. She knew that for a moment death had faced her. Always before when she had rushed away from Amy it was from herself that she had fled, but to-day it was from Amy. She had nothing, no shield, no evasion, nothing at all to meet or turn aside Amy's purpose. She went out of the house blindly, not knowing if she would ever dare return.

"Why—how odd!" said Professor Lowe, mildly. "She didn't even speak." "She's a very odd person, this Miss Terry," said the Colonel. "Sit down, Mrs. Jackson. We must see one of the nurses—"

"Isn't there any way," asked Amy, paying no attention to the Colonel's suggestion, "that we can get Howard out of here? Is he too sick to be moved? He mustn't stay here. He mustn't!"

The Colonel was struck with dismay. Was Jackson's wife, who until this moment had seemed to him sensible and quite beautiful—allowing of course for fatigue from her trip and her natural anxiety—was she going odd on him too? The Terry woman had worn out his patience in those three days! And if this was still another unreasonable, tiresome, unpleasant—but he looked at Amy, and perceived that she was extremely moved, shaken with some wild and fearful purpose he did not understand. So he answered carefully: "I think it's extremely doubtful, but we'll ask the doctor. He ought to be along any moment."

"Better sit down, my dear," urged Professor Lowe. "Let me take your things. Here, this seems comfortable." He glanced about him and shook his head. "Jane certainly hasn't arranged her home in her Aunt Ross's tradition."

He looked with amazement at the room which Jane had done in the first high wave of Teutonic modernism, with horizontal striped walls, furniture of flat wood and bent silvered pipes, zebra skin cushions, and on one wall a large painting in the style of Picasso's early abstractions, in which a mandolin, a staphyler, eight apples and three pears and a green banana, a foot-rule and what was apparently Titan's upper teeth were combined.

"But where is Howard?" said Amy, frantically. "Isn't there a nurse, or a servant, or someone—I want to see him—"

"There are two maids and two nurses," said the Colonel, "but we ought to see Doctor Gavin first." He could not take the responsibility of letting Amy enter that room to see her husband in his present state without the doctor's consent. But the arrival of the doctor relieved him.

"He is a desperately sick man," the doctor told Amy. "We've done everything we can. It is now solely a question of his own strength. He has the most dangerous type of pneumonia—but I have seen recoveries. He is very strong. His heart is sound. There is no impediment. He has a chance. That's all I can say."

"May I see him?" asked Amy. "You may look at him from the door, though—I—well, I think it's inadvisable. Don't speak to him. He won't know you anyway. I'll go with you."

She walked down the hall with the doctor's hand under her arm, watching her. She was, she saw, a very different type from Miss Terry and he wondered curiously why a man with a wife like this should mix himself in an intrigue with the other woman. "But there it is," he thought. "He's in the army and on the loose, and a thirsty man'll drink dirty water—if he's thirsty enough and there's no clean at hand."

It had never entered the doctor's head that Jane's story of Howard as a relation was true. He was surprised that the Colonel had been so tactless enough to bring the wife to what the doctor called "the other woman's apartment." The Colonel himself had had his doubts. He had long-distanced Marburg with many misgivings. Luckily Mary Jackson had answered and the situation had at once been cleared, but he had not remembered to tell the doctor this.

So the doctor watched Amy, and she looked through the shining window of the oxygen tent and saw Howard, blue-parched and gaunt, a stubby growth of beard giving his face a strange neglected aspect; his lips drawn back, his eyes half closed, while all the room sounded with the suffering labour of his breath. Two white-masked, white-gowned nurses tended the oxygen pump—they and the strange apparatus made the room like a spectral laboratory.

Amy did not tremble now as she had trembled when she stood before Jane. She stood very still and put out one hand, palm up, a very little way, as if she offered him her own strength, her own undying tenderness and trust. It gave the hard-boiled doctor a queer awe. He felt her heart going past him, going to that dying man on the bed, pushing death back from him, denying it, refusing its terrible imminence.

As they went slowly to the living room, Amy said: "I wish he could be got out of this place."

"Ah," thought the doctor, "she knows. A damned shame." Aloud he said, "It's impossible. Of course, he never should have been brought here but he can't be moved."

"It must," went on Amy, almost as if talking to herself, "be the greatest inconvenience to Jane. Not that it matters—"

The doctor had always prided himself on being incurious on personal matters. Now this pride failed him. "Do you know Miss Terry?" he could not help asking.

"I've known her ever since we were children," said Amy. She answered the question mechanically. Her whole being was back in the sickroom, holding fast to Howard, that he might not give up, slip away from her forever.

"Maybe I was all wrong about the husband and Terry," thought the doctor, but he had one more question. "Miss Terry said that she was a relation of yours—or was it of your husband?"

Again Amy replied mechanically: "Yes. They're distant cousins—connections, at least—"

Her voice changed to intense and anxious demand: "When will you know—about Howard? Are you sure about his condition? Could we have more doctors, a consultation? Would it help?"

By this time they were back with the Colonel and Professor Lowe, who heard what Amy had said. Professor Lowe came forward: "You must forgive my daughter's bluntness. She is in great distress."

"I'll give you the names of the best men in the city and arrange a consultation with any of them you choose, immediately. I appreciate Mrs. Jackson's feeling."

"If we could only get him away from here," cried Amy. "I can't stay here—and I must. I won't leave him."

"But my dear child," said her father, "Jane wouldn't want you to go. . . I wonder . . . where is Jane. . . if we could talk to her. . ."

"Jane won't come back," said Amy. She put her hand over her eyes, spoke in a low voice as if to herself. "But we must stay—we must stay."

"Suppose," said Professor Lowe, "that I speak to the maids. And I'll see Jane. I'll arrange things. I'll arrange everything. And in the meantime, if we could get at that consultation, doctor. Choose your own specialists. You know your field."

The Colonel was grateful. This old professor had a smooth way with him. He could take charge. And he, the Colonel, would be released to his duty, which this sad affair of Jackson's illness was throwing completely out of gear. Particularly was the Colonel glad at the prospect of no more interviews with Jane. He hadn't known what to do with her. An extraordinarily trying woman, "I'll be back later," he told them, "and I'll be telephoning before that. Here's where you can get me if you want me."

The doctor went to the telephone. Professor Lowe disappeared toward the kitchen to investigate and placate the servants and Amy was in the strange big room alone. She was in that state of weariness and exhaustion where rest is impossible and the nerves whip the mind into a ferment of activity for thought of everything at once: the baby felt at home, it was fortunate now that she hadn't been able to nurse him; the awful scene with Jane—why had Jane told such lies—when Amy knew from the Colonel that the very day Howard had been taken sick was the first time he'd been away from the camp since his arrival from Texas! And even if the Colonel had not told her this, Jane might have known that Amy would never believe Howard unfaithful! She didn't know how Jane had got hold of Howard. It was, she supposed, just one of the impossible chances that sometimes fall. She was sure that Howard had been too sick to here, and she wished, with a sickening rage, that she had actually struck Jane across her lying mouth. "I'll never forgive her," she thought, "never, never! She is vile, she is poisonous."

NEW NAZI SPLIT

OFFICIALS DISCHARGED FOR HINDRANCE

Berlin, Aug. 24. Reports that the breach between the Right and Left groups of the German Nazi Party is widening, are borne out by recent developments in National-Socialist labour circles.

Friction between the two groups is evident in the announcement that Dr. Brucker, Chief of the Insurance Department of the German Labour Front, and two other high officials have been deprived of their posts.

The grounds for the officials' dismissal are that they helped former leading members of the old trade unions to thwart Nazi efforts to build up the Labour Front.—Reuter Special.

GANGSTER SHOT

VAN METER RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 24. Homer Van Meter, member of the late John Dillinger's gang, was riddled with bullets in the streets of St. Paul to-day, when he attempted to resist a police order to surrender.

Van Meter was challenged by detectives at a street corner. Ignoring their summons to stop, he whipped a revolver from his coat pocket and fired two shots, narrowly missing the Chief of Police. It was the last act of his criminal career.

Waiting detectives opened a terrific hail of fire with revolvers, rifles and machine guns, pausing only for a brief second when a woman inadvertently crossed the line of fire.

The gangster fell to the footpath, riddled from head to foot with fifty bullets.—Reuter.

Face Powder Facts.

SCIENTIST TELLS OF AMAZING NEW RECIPE

Extraordinary laboratory tests made with a new face powder formula have definitely proved that any woman can now obtain a beautiful, youthful complexion without the usual bluish shiny nose, blotches and the worst complexion defects. The ingredient which makes this remarkable difference is called 'mouse of cream' it makes the powder stay on all day long even in windy or rainy weather, and in spite of perspiration while dancing or playing games. The entire world's rights to this amazing new formula have been acquired by Tolalox. Mouse of Cream is now scientifically blended in exactly the right proportions by a patented process with the finest air-floated powder in Poudre Tolalox. Try a box of Poudre Tolalox, the only Mouse of Cream face powder to-day. The immediate and tremendous improvement in your appearance will be the admiration and envy of your friends.

NO DECEPTION
WHATEVER!

We live in an age when so many different foodstuffs (and real beer is a food) come under the magic wand of the scientist. There is synthetic this, and synthetic that, and even synthetic BEER!

In many cases, the explanation is in the desire to produce an imitation of a certain article at a price below that of the genuine product, or to produce in bulk with the minimum of effort.

A REALLY GOOD BEER MUST BE MADE ACCORDING TO TRADITION.

The ingredients must be the finest of their kind, and the brewing the work of experts. It is because of its genuine excellence that—

SCANDALS

To our favourite list of "candid confessions" has to be added

the announcement by Mr. L. H.

C. Calthrop that the increasing growth of bribery in the lower ranks of the police force has come to his knowledge. This is isolating a sentence of the worthy A.S.P., recasting it is avoid quotation marks and, possibly, therefore, being a little unfair—an admission of our own which should suffice to show that such is far from our intention. For sympathy is warranted to a large extent. It is not difficult to believe that both Mr. Calthrop and the Divisional Inspector have been engaged for three months endeavouring to get to the bottom of the bribery collection procedure, with years of perfection behind it, without meeting with any success. The attempt in itself under-estimated the organisation. Two such well-known officers might just as well have walked down the street clanging bells as an invitation to the bribe ring and the victims of the ring to make voluntary statements. For that is where effort to stamp out graft in the public service breaks down. The victims acquiesce—"protection" being preferable to persecution—and even when they feel resentful, are prepared to make complaints privately, and grumble vociferously, they still jib most violently, presumably from fear, when invited to carry their grievance to its logical conclusion. As a newspaper,

we have the fullest experience of this particular difficulty.

The mulcted, or their friends,

write Letters to the Editor, or call personally, and demand our intervention in their cause, and fade out quietly when the request goes forth for the furnishing of the proof. In such a sorry situation, where is the curative outlet? The secret drafting in of detective officers from outside on special duty might achieve results in a few months of quiet investigation without the publicity and ex-posure of "cheap" arrests.

Who can tell? Only one thing is quite certain, and it is a deplorable fact, that inside the Colony there can be no real assurance of an honest attack on the problem. The higher

NOTES OF THE DAY

LEAGUE ASSEMBLY

The fifteenth session of the Assembly of the League of Nations which opens at Geneva on September 10 is likely to be one of the most critical in the League's history. The importance attached is shown by the composition of the British team. The delegates appointed to represent Great Britain include Sir John Simon and Mr.
Anthony Eden, while the third of the principal trio is to be Mr.
Skelton, the Under-Secretary of State for Scotland. There are also to be four substitute-delegates, Mr.
Shakespeare, Under-Secretary to the Ministry of Health, Sir Ernest Bennett, Assistant P.M.G., Miss
Horsburgh, and Mr. W. E. Beckett,
C.M.G. Mr. Beckett is the only one of the seven who is not a member of the House of Commons, and he obviously owes his nomination to the fact that he is legal adviser to the Foreign Office.

THE AGENDA

It is difficult to foresee exactly from the Preliminary Agenda, published as long ago as May 10, what question or questions are going to form the chief subjects of discussion. It is everywhere felt, however, that it is going to be a very critical Session and it is more than probable that the Agenda will be subjected to much revision owing to the political issues of high importance that will not be evaded.
The Bureau of the Disarmament Conference is also meeting in the early days of September, and its proceedings, though they may not altogether overshadow those of the Assembly, are certain to affect them vitally for good or ill.

LEADING QUESTIONS

There is a variety of questions which may become prominent.
Will, for instance, anything be done to bring the Covenant of the League into harmony with the Pact of Paris? Will anything come out of the Report of the Spanish Government's Madrid Conference on Press co-operation in the Organization of Peace, with a special view to preventing the spread of "false information, which may threaten the peace of the world and the good understanding between nations?"
Will the proposal of the Polish Government for the protection of minorities by a Convention to be drafted by an international Conference go through? And of even more general interest will Russia secure the two-thirds vote invitation to assume membership? The answers may have considerable bearing upon the future of the League, at least insofar as public confidence in the institution is retained.

and trusted officers in the police force are too well known to be able to act successfully. Among the rest of the European contingent, there are scores, of the nicest fellows, honest, unimpenchable and there are others.
The whole system is however so riddled with graft that granted obvious exceptions, the problem is to discover which way to turn to put hands on the men who can be regarded as completely above suspicion.
The bad ones give an unpleasant odour to the others. And there it stands. What is more, there are several other departments of government which are just as bad, or worse. Only Mr.
Calthrop's statement in the small-beer bribery case has caused the singling out of the Police Department for special study. The sad story could be pursued ad infinitum were space available. The never locally-published League of Nations report on the S.C.A. and the licensing of girls to local brothels furnished one eye-opener. This remarkable document gave the clue to much. Payment for privileges! It tells the whole story, except where payment is for immunity.
And this shocking state of affairs goes in a Colony where civil servants are considered pampered, which only means that temptations being what they are, the Executive finds it desirable to engage its officials upon terms which should be sufficient to place them beyond the reach of the corrupter. Yet the evil persists and grows, frequently because the good-intentioned after a while begin to reflect detrimentally upon what advantage they get from resistance. Two questions in conclusion. Where exactly do the police interpreters come in? And who are the so-called Four Celestial Emperors? The correct answers would be extremely interesting.

MR. PEPYS IN HONGKONG

August 17th. Up betimes and while I drink, my morning dish of ten I do glance through the News-sheets. It seems that my fears for the dogges were not well grounded, or, that they have now recovered their appetites, as there are bites a plenty reported. It is reported also in the news that Noel Coward plans to come to the Far East in the future, but, as he did point out in one of his most able plays how dull the poor fools were who did hear the white man's burden in the East, and did make such excellent laughing stocks of us, I am at a standstill to imagine the reason for his second visit to such stupid folk. But it may be that he seeks further subjects for his merry wit, and I am minded that if he doth stop in the Colony he should be labelled that all folk should know who he was. "Fœnum habent in cornu."
For all that, as I have set down before, I can forgive him much in that he did compose "A room with a view." Very busy at my office and later to the Clubbe where I meet Mr.
Tristram who tells me of an M.C.C.
Gala to be held upon Repulse Bay beach upon the fourth day of September which is a Tuesday. There are, he says, children's swimming races and games, and I would that my family were here that I might take them. Of the side-shows he doth speak, in one case, somewhat sadly and I find he would have the Pyrama Farade to be from fourteen to twenty-six years rather than from six to fourteen. For which he being a married man, I do rebuke him. And it grieves me much that I have an engagement and cannot go. But, did they but use for target in the Aunt Sally the man, who caused all the hats to be pulled down at the further end of the beach. I doubt not I and many others would drop all to attend.
Yet even so, I doubt not I shall buy me a ticket.

18th. Woke late this morning it having rained so in the night that I could not sleep for it, and so was somewhat late at the office where, it being too wet to do anything, I find little business awaiting me and so did start upon one or two heavy matters that I have in mind to do. Thence to Anderson's where I buy me a Gala ticket to aid the M.C.C. on the 4th.
prox, and so to the Snakepit where Mr. Nulegrub and his Lady take their luncheon with me. But I perceive she did get out of bed upon the incorrect side that morning, for after she waxed very opinionate, and did tell me many home truths, as she did call them, until I could nigh have beaten her. But I doubt not I shall be even with her yet, as I did tell her and so we parted very good friends.
But it may be it was but an indisposition after the curry, tho' her Lord and I found it pretty good. Later, slept for a while and then to Kowloon to dine with Mr. Print, and there I do meet a pleasant person called Buchanan. But unless he can curb his taste for uncooked fowls to his meals
I doubt he will never make old bones.
Later played at Contract, but Lord!
when I do telephone for a taxi it takes some half of an hour to come and then, when I go out, I find it upon the crown of the road, and between us a great gulph of rushing water so that I may not get to him nor will he venture into it. And so he goes home and I do not, but sleep upon my host's sofa, which I find mighty comfortable, and the night pleasant and cool with no musketeers. And this I do believe to be the first occasion that I have slept in Kowloon since 1923, when my wife, poor wretch, and I, being newly wed and come out, stop a day or two with Mr. Benn upon the Observatory hill.

19th. (Lord's Day). Slept 'till nigh eight of the clock and then, as I do know how I myself do loathe to be disturbed of a Sunday morning, I do on my garments hastily and creep out to the ferry—where just landing I meet Mr. K. Bradleys and two other friends, who do greet me civilly. But I am sorry for the thought that I did read in their faces. During most of this day I did sleep, or write in my Chamber.

20th. Up very betimes and to the office, where I find much business awaiting me. News this day of the ordination of Mr. C. Sargent, as a Deacon of the Church of England.
And I am glad of it for I hold him to be a fine English gentleman, able at sports, as witness his cricket, and in music of far more culture than I am; for he is an accomplished student of operatic music, and is ever ready to share his knowledge with the uninstructed. Wherefore I do wish him
God-speed in all his undertakings.

21st. Busy at the office and after to a preview of a picture with Mistress Ann's parents. And I am grieved that Mistress Ann was not present, but I do fear she loves me less than heretofore. After we do drink a speedy glass of wine in the lower part of the Gloucester House, and after, I do charter a pirate motor Coach for passage to Shek O, where I am minded to hear news of the Test Match. But Lord! I am well nigh drowned upon the journey out. Once there with my good Cousin Eric, I do find a mighty pleasant room and moreover a fire. And I do put it upon record that at Shek O, in this year of grace 1934, upon the 21st Day of August a fire was most grateful and comforting. Listened in very pleasantly but some statics, and thereafter to dinner in the lunch interval at the Oval. But afterwards everything fades out until after twelve of the clock. But as it was sad news to hear, it may be that it was as well.
Later all comes through until the end, and so home to Mr. Sharpe's house where I do sleep, but it is then two of the clock. Yet I do perceive that my Lord of Sandwich has not yet returned.

22nd. Seeing that it was a strange bed, I do sleep pretty well, though I am in doubt if the better dogs do essay to lick one's nose through the musketeer curtain in the early morning. After breaking my fast, to office with Mr. Sharpe and so to business. A wet day, off and on, and all are mighty tired of the rain, as even are Tula's officers who did put back here after a small difference with a loaded junk, wherein the latter wins, but not past the collision bulkhead.
But I doubt not it did irk them sore to return once more to Hongkong, even though they have seen the port so seldom.

23rd. Very busy in my office and later to the Clubbe. News comes of the loss of the Test match, which all did expect, but not of such a feeble display by our batsmen, and I do suppose that this series of Test Matches has been the most humiliating that ever were, and the M.C.C. are much to blame, but the aged Selectors even more. For to crown their imbecility they did select Woolley—and with what result. Indeed, as has been written, many are dead, but will not lie down. And so to bed!

"Yeah, my wife is that way; she would be out dancing every night if I could take her."

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Butts

Hikers are people who have spare time on their hands which they spend on their feet.

Streamlined hair for women motorists is the latest craze. We presume that it should be worn in conjunction with hair-pin bends.

It is said the people prefer cars to pianos these days. A run in a car can be more exciting than a run on a piano.

For ourselves, we can't find anything wrong with "Eva" excepting the price.

Every modern garden should have a swimming pool, says a writer in a magazine. Some Hongkong people manage to get into deep water without.

The young couple who rode back from Repulse Bay on the hood of a car the other night, obviously believed in higher purchase.

A motorist in South Africa was attacked recently by an ostrich.
Perhaps he struck it at an unfair advantage with its head in the sand.

According to certain quarters, a boom is predicted in Hongkong next year. Shops will doubtless prepare to stock and share it.

A little bird tells us that amongst the collection taken at a certain church last Sunday morning, was a small Egyptian coin.
The Plastre Resistance!

Onions are said to be good for the complexion. Even so, most people will stick to soap.

She was only a cricketer's daughter. But oh! what a body-line!

We have yet to discover why
"Eva" wears a bell, unless it is to prevent her being kidnapped.

There is no truth in the report that the following will appear in a local church magazine:—"Will members of the congregation, intending to place buttons in the offertory, kindly use their own, and not pick them off the hassocks."

Thank goodness there's no body-line bowling in bowls!

Week-end Weather forecast. In many quarters the weather will be wet, both individually and collectively.

If it's cloudy, try a filter.

We understand that the coolie who poked his carrying-pole into one of Eva's eyes, was only trying to bamboozle her!

An optimist informs us that there is every possibility of local shares taking a jump up to Zero.

Over 50,000 tickets have been sold in the Picnic Bay Sweepstake.
We hope we won't pick nix!

That was a bright youngster, who, when asked to give an example of an unknown quantity, replied—"A Hongkong dollar."

There is no truth in the rumour that the snake killed near "Eva" was only a slow-worm.

I'm Eva, I'm It;

I'm the Queen of the Road;
And although I am dumb, I'm a force.

In your cars you may sit,
And study my mode,

I'm the latest from London, of course.

A wink of my eye,

And you pass or you stop;

To check you I'm not a bit slow.

My only complaint is,

I've nothing to cop,—

If only the traffic would grow!

What's Wrong With the Films?

It remained for Norma Shearer, of the personally blameless married life to complete a series of films which played so fast and loose with marriage as to raise a storm of protest. Here she is in "Riptide" with her husband, Herbert Marshall, behind her as she gazes at Robert Montgomery, her lover.

BY DAN THOMAS.
Marriage that is put on and taken off like an old coat. Divorced with no more serious aspect than the choice between organ or lemon. A whole series of pictures making light of the basic institution of social life has been one of the principal sources of objection in the American campaign to clean up the movies.

Watch this space—each week there will appear announcements of our latest and most exclusive styles in smart footwear for Ladies and Gentlemen.

And, strangely enough, the very actress whose pictures have caused the strongest reaction against the movie treatment of marriage is one whose own married life has been considered a refreshing model in Hollywood, where multiple marriages are the rule rather than the exception.

She is Norma Shearer, whose personal life is beyond reproach, and whose marriage to Producer Irving Thalberg is regarded as extraordinarily successful. But it was her most recent vehicle, "Riptide," that caused indignation over married life as portrayed in the movies to rise to a high pitch.

REPETITION STIRS STORM.

Although "Riptide" was objected to because of its own incidents—intimacy between Norma Shearer and Robert Montgomery while she is married to Herbert Marshall—complaints registered, against it, probably owe something to the suggestion of divorce pictures Miss Shearer has made.

Those who have presented Miss Shearer as a woman of loose moral fibre, among them being "The Trial of Mary Dugan," "The Divorcee," "Let Us Be Gay," "Strangers May Kiss," "A Free Soul," "Private Lives," and "Strange Interlude."

When along came "Riptide" with another similar role, indignation mounted to a new high. Her followers, knowing Miss Shearer's fine qualities as an actress, began to be indignant that she should continually be cast in super-sophisticated roles.

SUCCESS IN CLEAN PICTURES.

Because of her personality and talent, Miss Shearer was always certain to draw huge throngs to her pictures, regardless of what kind of pictures they were. And the critics shouted that she was simply sending them away from the theatre with an object lesson in immorality.

Yet her own success in 100 per cent clean pictures, such as "Smiling Through," proves that the super-sophisticated lady-of-the-evening, woman-of-the-world sort of role is not at all necessary to Shearer's success, either with the public or at the box office, which, after all, is the same thing.

Another example of the ruin of an otherwise excellent picture, according to those who are now demanding movie reform, was "The Power and the Glory," featuring Spencer Tracy and Colleen Moore. One situation in the film depicted a boy entering into a love affair with his stepmother.

SPOILED BY "DIRT" SCENE.

The film was beautifully made, and showed both Tracy and Miss Moore at the height of their powers as actor and actress, but the critics contend that the unnecessary introduction of this scene spoiled what might otherwise have been an outstanding picture.

Granted that there are divorces and broken marriages, granted that there are sophisticated folk (in the movie colony, as well as elsewhere) who jump in and out of marriage with sickening regularity, the critics of the movies now raise the question of whether it is desirable to present such themes with such frequency to the audiences, to bring about the modern divorcee.

SAVING GRACE IN DIRECTION.

Proper handling and intelligent direction make all the difference in the world. It is hard, for example, to think of a more risqué plot than to have a young man and a girl, unmarried, travelling across the country in an auto and sharing a cabin night in tourist camps along the way.

Yet that is the plot that was put on the screen without raising any volume of objection in "It Happened One Night" with Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert. Here Frank Capra, the director, handled the compromising situation with such a delicate touch, and with so restrained and tasteful a hand, that there was scarcely a single objection.

It was the complete answer to the question: Can brains, taste, and honesty of purpose enable the movies to handle delicate situations without offence?

MAKES LIGHT OF MARRIAGE.

A typical example of the super-sophisticated in the movies was the bringing to that medium of Noel Coward's "Design for Living." Here was a play which deliberately set out to make light of the marriage tie as recognized by society to-day, by portraying a group of sophisticated who bat matrimony about like a tennis ball throughout the picture.

Many audiences, more old-fashioned than certain "advanced" sets of playgoers of the French Riviera, were offended by the light view of the marriage relation which was the very theme of this picture.

The cleverness and smartness of dialogue which marked this vehicle would be lost on young people. It was pointed out, though they could not miss the joking view taken of the whole marriage relation.

CENSURE FOR ANN HARDING.

Ann Harding is another actress who has "gone sophisticated" in recent pictures which have shown a pretty hard-boiled attitude toward both marriage and divorce—"The Right to Romance," and "Gallant Lady."

But her current release, "The Life of Virgile Winters," has aroused even a greater storm, though it was re-edited in Hollywood before release. In this picture Anne continues an intrigue with an old sweetheart even after he marries another girl, who looks on the relationship more or less complacently.

Some of the pictures mentioned above no doubt have merit, and several were handled with considerable restraint and delicacy. But it is the constant flood of such pictures which has aroused the critics.

CHILDREN OFFER PROBLEM.

It is largely a matter of proportion, and the showing of three divorce-shaken marriages to one that turns out happily is a rather giving a warped view of life. And while it seems unnecessary to expect that all movies should be as good as the best, it is

HITLER'S FUTURE: UNREST IN GERMANY

By MILTON BRONNER

Adolf Hitler, Nazi Chancellor of Germany, has tight-rope-d his perilous way over a dark chain of plots and counter-plots, revolution and counter-revolution, getting rid of old and trusted comrades on his way. But he is still far from having reached a secure haven. The methods in which he has indulged may temporarily seem to make him stronger than ever, but his troubles are really only commencing.

On every side he has potential enemies. The Socialists and the Communists have long since ceased to exist as political parties. But they have merely gone underground. From neighbouring countries, like France and Czechoslovakia, they still continue to send into Germany their literature, often printed on films sheets easily hidden between other things. Many have camouflaged themselves as Brown Shirts. For instance, a current story in Hamburg is this:

First Workman: "I joined the Storm Troops the other night."
Second Workman: "How did you find things?"
First Workman: "Rotten! There were only two Nazis there."

UNRELIABLE BROWN SHIRTS.

The Steel Helmets, composed of monarchist-minded veterans of the World War, have not given wholehearted allegiance to the regime despite the effusive assurances of their official leader, Franz Sedlitz, who has the job of Minister of Labour in the Nazi Cabinet.

But worst of all, from Hitler's standpoint, is the fact that the events of the past few weeks show that he cannot rely upon his Brown Shirt army any more. Some of the sweepings of Germany found their way into that private army in the early days—desperate unemployed youths, streets boys, roughs of all descriptions. In the turbulent days before Hitler achieved power, these troops had a good time fighting Communists in the streets of the cities and villages. After Hitler became Chancellor, in the first months of the terror they had a holiday slaking old accumulated hatreds and vengeance. But in the more peaceful days, the long hours of marching and drilling were not so good, particularly when they were warned not to stick their fingers in every business and political pie. Disappointment followed disappointment. They were not given places in the Reichswehr. The rank and file did not get jobs, houses, parties, and automobiles. They were not allowed to attack and disband the hated Steel Helmets. They were told that during July for one month they themselves would be entirely disbanded, would no longer be allowed to march about in their brown shirts, and were advised to find a useful job of real work—haymaking in the country, timber felling, any worthwhile service.

DISSATISFACTION REMAINS.

They were doubtful whether they would ever be called together again. So they were in a mood to listen to Ernst Roehm, their chief of staff, Karl Ernst, their Berlin leader, and other rebels who paid for their revolt with their lives. The chiefs are dead, but the dissatisfaction remains. They find Hitler and General Goering relying more and more upon the latter's secret police. Even another blood bath may not entirely cow the Brown Shirts.

The only body that will be the Reichswehr, the most perfectly trained army in the world. In the last analysis that army may hold the future fate of Germany in its hands. So far, in all the bloody events of the recent past, the Reichswehr has held carefully aloof. But it is offered by the old Junker type of men who in their hearts despise Hitler as much as they do the republicans.

The other potential danger to Hitler is General Winter, with his aides—Colonel Business, Depression, Colonel Unemployment, and Colonel Hunger. Hitler's whole play for the working masses has been that he was going to conquer unemployment. Something has been done in that direction by forcing employers and all government agencies to take on more men. But now Germany is repudiating her private commercial debts. In the short run this will probably mean that when Germany seeks to buy from America the copper and cotton she needs, and from the British Empire the wool, rubber and tin, she will be told:

"Certainly—when you place the cash in our bank to pay for the same on the spot."

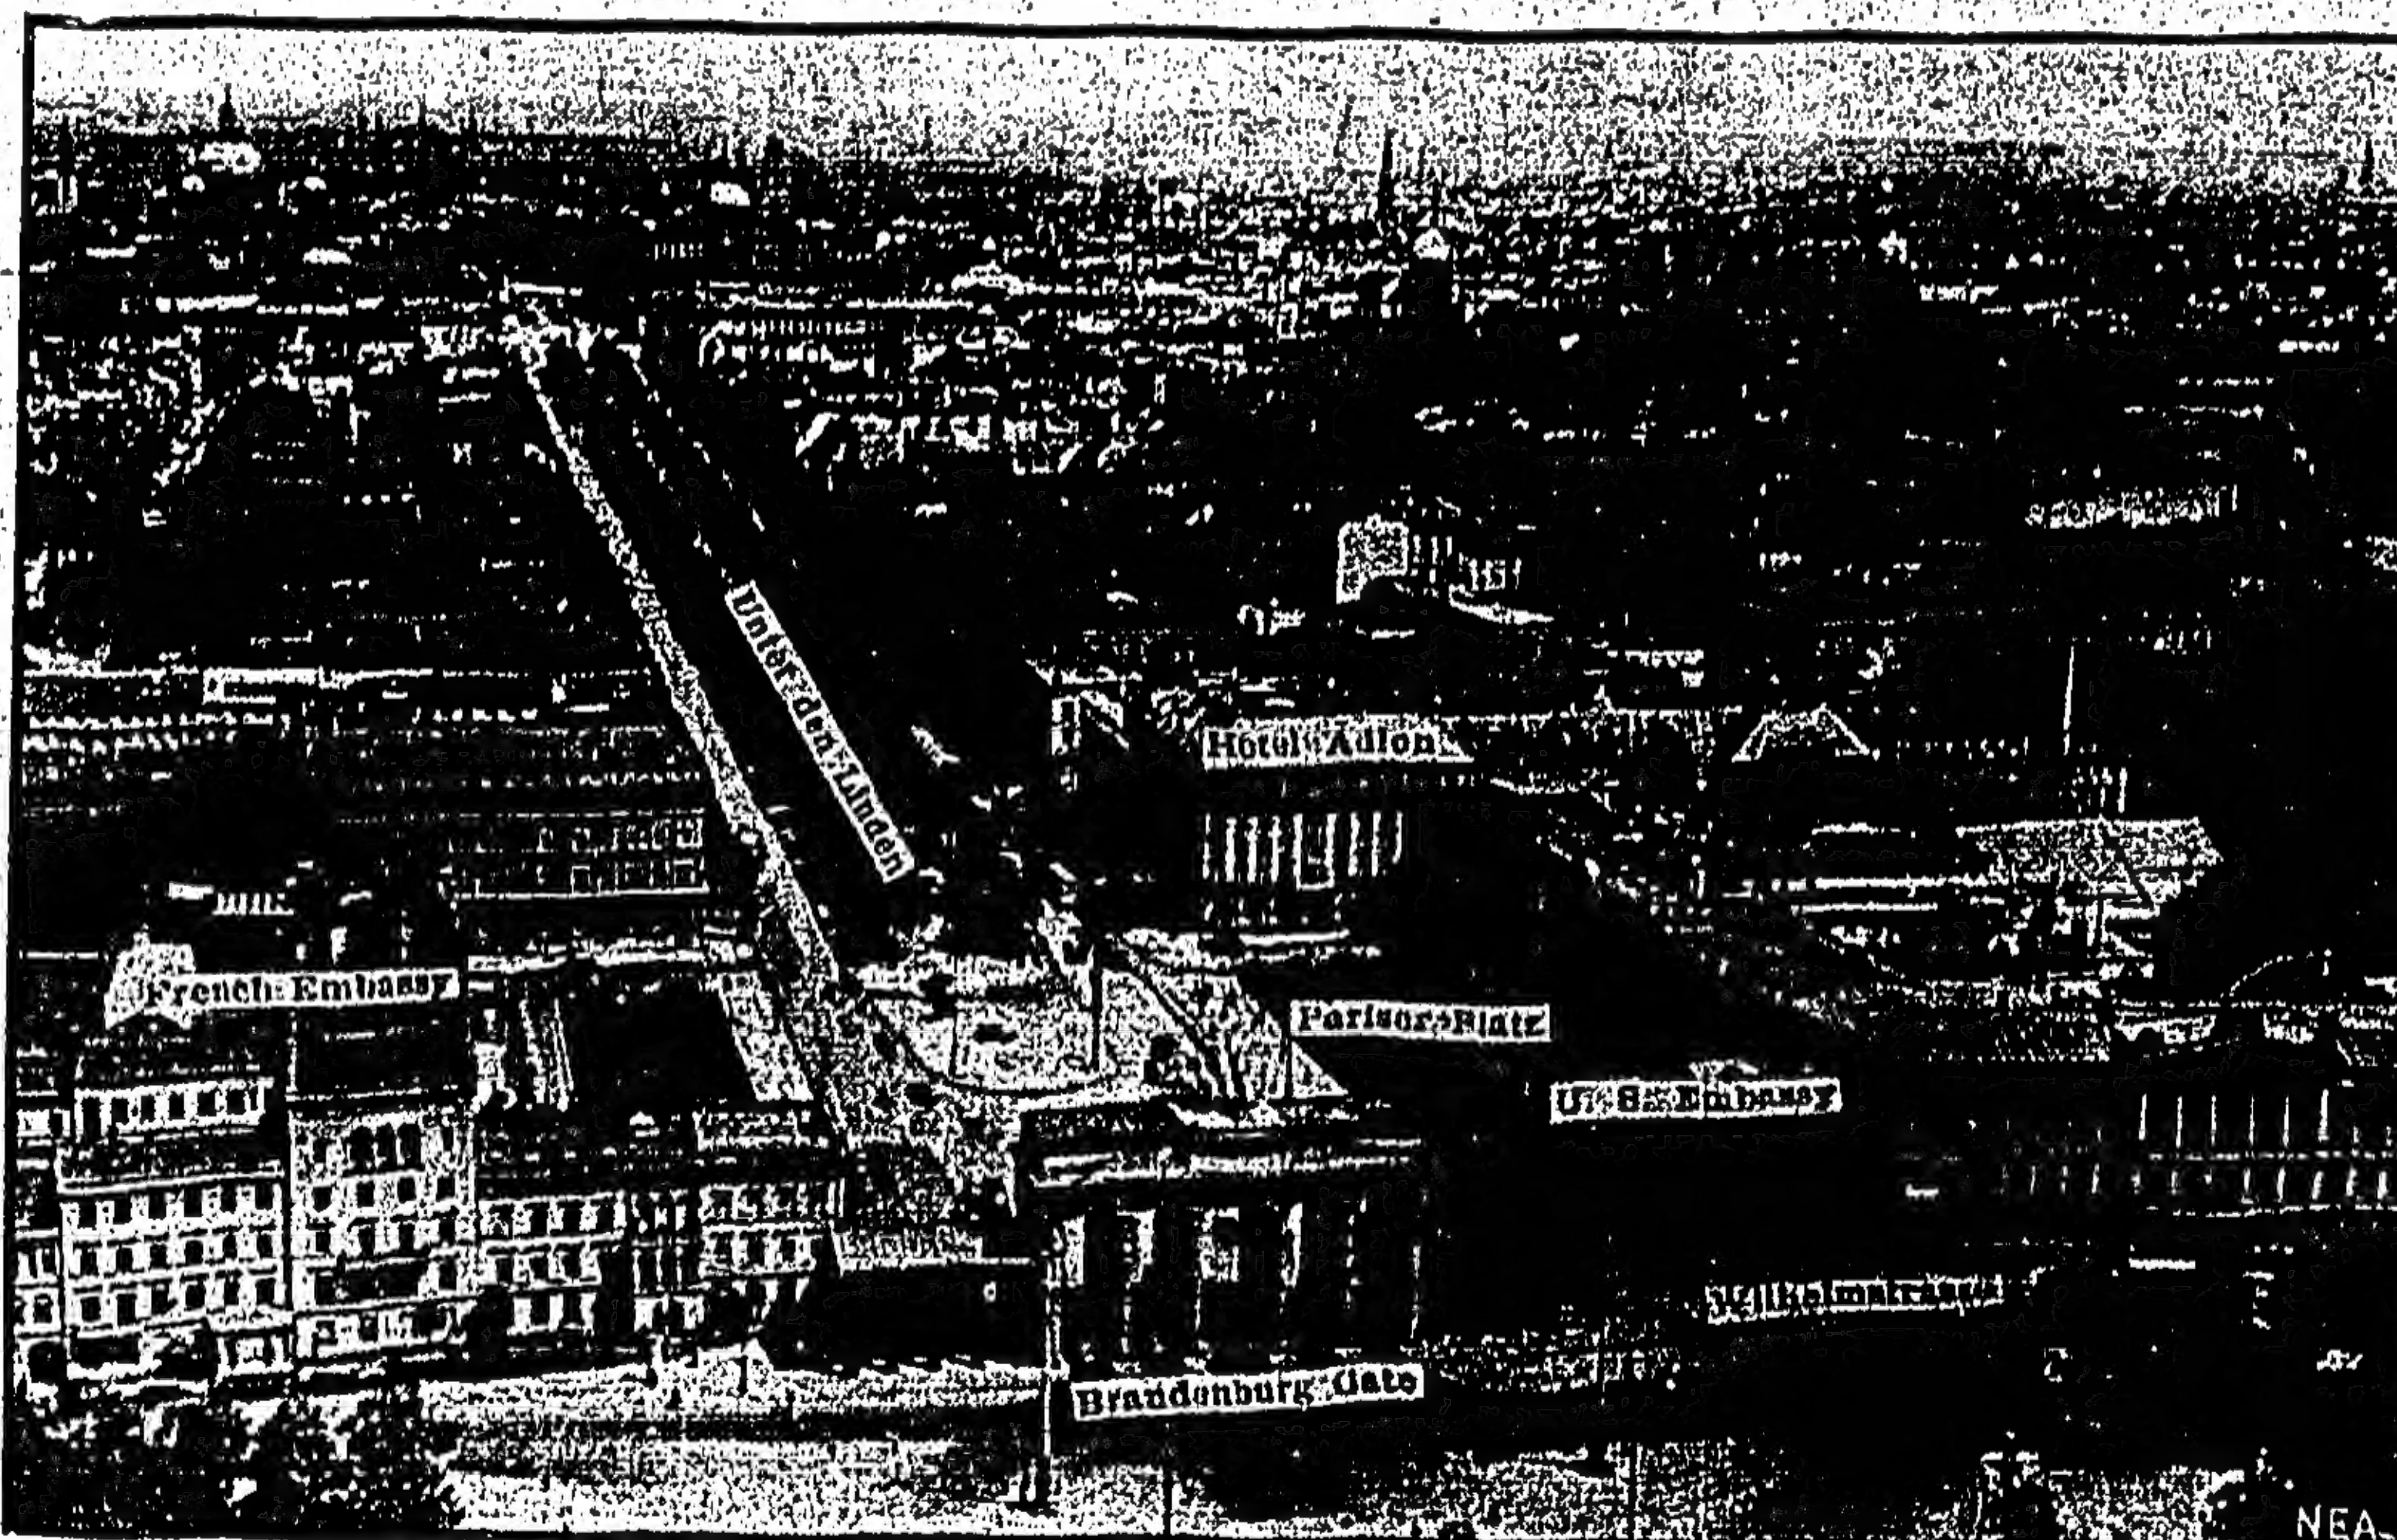

TRADE SITUATION.

Falling supplies of raw materials will affect most of the big industries of Germany. It may mean short time on, no time. It will certainly mean increasing unemployment. Hitler has already foreseen all this. He has tried to take the edge off by warning the German people they must tighten their belts and suffer as if in a war. They must get used to higher taxes, less pay, less food.

As long ago as last spring German workers complained to the present writer that by the time they paid their taxes, their fees for obligatory old age, health and unemployment insurance, and made their contributions to the various Nazi funds, they only had enough left to pay their rent and buy their grub. Getting new clothes, they said, was out of the question.

That condition has become more acute since then. The mass of the people will be more disillusioned than ever this winter. The Nazi heaven has not been broadened. People can't eat, nor can they want more rallies.

A birdman's-eye view of the capital of Nazi Germany: Berlin's historic Unter den Linden, scene of impressive Nazi demonstrations; Wilhelmstrasse, along which are built the Chancellery and other government buildings; Brandenburg Gate, entrance to the vast Tiergarten; the U. S. and French embassies, watchfully awaiting the outcome of threats against the Hitler government; the Pariser Platz, its name unchanged even during the World War; and the famous Hotel Adlon, where many great political conferences are held.

Summer Frocks for the Mature Woman

The new costumes are just as flattering to matronly figures as the smart little dresses are to school girls

Costumes courtesy
LANE BRYANT
New York

NETS, sheers, washable cropes and the novelty cottons are being used to make smart costumes for matronly figures.

The woman who chooses her clothes from this summer's collection will find that they are as flattering to her figure as the trim nautical-influenced frocks in the Junior Misses' departments are to port little high school girls.

Gone are the days when the older woman couldn't find a thing that really suited her type of figure. Her new costumes can have grace in every line and an unusual combination of dignity and chic. These days, a lady doesn't look dowdy or carelessly turned-out simply because she's stepped out of the size 16 class once and for all.

The double and triple sheer jacket outfits are very practical. Very young matrons will like the long-sleeved jackets that are worn over short-sleeved dresses, but the older woman doubtless will prefer long-sleeved dresses with pockets that are sleeveless. Either type is flattering.

For sports, the matron wears frocks of washable silk or she is a cotton lover, she'll follow the example set by the very young and select her country clothes from the cotton department. She may like linen even better than tie silks will appeal.

Necklines are an important consideration for larger figures. Plain V-shaped ones are good and so are soft cowl types. When it comes to selecting something to wear to tea, luncheon and bridge parties, the matron figure is likely to select the latter. And, speaking of costumes for semi-formal occasions, we'll add a word about the jackets. Most of them are longer than hip-length, ranging from three-quarters to seven-eighths types.

As for hats, this season's bonnets are just right for older women. The wide-brimmed types and the little tricorns are charming with everything and flattering to mature faces.

PERFECT FOR THE matron is this jacket ensemble in navy blue lured net. The jacket's sleeves are bordered with accordion pleated frills to match the wide revers on the dress.

THIS STRIPED SPORTS dress in washable crepe is patterned after the ever-popular shirtwaist types, but at the same time is softened by the flaring sleeves and the V-neckline that is rounded slightly outward.

A SUMMER dress of fine washable crepe in pastel blue has round collar and sleeves. A wide band of white lace is around the neck and sleeves.

A DINNER OUTFIT in colorful printed cotton includes an ankle-length dress and a three-quarter length jacket. Note the flattering cowl neckline on the dress.

A PRINTED DRESS in navy blue has a wide collar and a wide band of white lace around the neck and sleeves. A wide band of white lace is around the neck and sleeves.

It's EASY to Catch COLD or 'FLU' when TRAVELLING

'ASPRO'
WILL PROTECT YOU

GERMS are no respecters of persons. Wherever you travel you cannot tell the moment you are likely to catch a cold—or even the 'Flu'. The proved protection is 'ASPRO'. At the slightest sign of sneezing—sore throat—feverishness, etc., take 'ASPRO' according to the directions in the packet. Quick relief is assured, because 'ASPRO' expels the body poisons through the pores of the skin, and, therefore, restores one to normal health by eliminating such poisons and not suppressing them. Furthermore, 'ASPRO' is safe, sure and certain—it neither harms the heart nor stomach, and it conforms to the standard of purity laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia—the guiding authority of the medical profession.

Dear Sir,
I thank 'ASPRO' Tablets for warding off influenza from my little boy, aged nine, as well as myself, when my wife, who was then an invalid, was in the hospital with double pneumonia, while we were getting colds, but stopped them with 'ASPRO' and nothing else.
My wife is a staunch advocate for their use now, and takes 'ASPRO' at the first sign of a cold. Wishing 'ASPRO' and their inventor all the good luck they deserve—Sincerely,
Yours faithfully,

Stubborn Cold Goes—PROOF!
6 Hunter Street, WILMINGTON.

Dear Sir,
I thank you for your kind interest in directing me to the easily COLD with which I had been battling for three weeks, during which time I had tried so many other infallible remedies. On Tuesday last I carried out your advice to the letter, and I could hardly believe the fact that on Saturday morning I woke up with no cold left, nor did I cough through the day. Although I have used 'ASPRO' with excellent results in relieving HEADACHES, I can say positively and with very much appreciation that your assurance that 'ASPRO' would break up a cold in 24 hours is properly observed, has been conclusively proven. Yours faithfully,

A BROKEN DOWN SYSTEM.

This is a condition (or disease) to which many people are given but few really understand. It is simply weakness—a break down as it were, of the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be its cause (they are almost numberless), its symptoms are much the same: the more prominent being sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weariness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all its ordinary affairs of life. Now, what alone is essential in all such cases is increased vitality—vigour, vital strength and energy to throw off these morbid feelings, and as night succeeds the day this may be more certainly secured by a course of THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY, THERAPION NO. 3.

than by any other known combination. So severely as it is taken in accordance with the printed directions will the shattered health be restored. THE EXPIRING LAMP OF LIFE LIGHTED UP AFRESH and new existence imparted in place of what had so lately seemed worn-out, tired and valueless. This preparation is suitable for all ages, constitutions and conditions. In either case: and it whose main feature is weakness, that will not be speedily and permanently overcome by this recuperative mixture, which is destined to cast into oblivion everything that had preceded it for this wide-spread scourge of humanity. For full particulars apply to: Messrs. The Anglo-Siam Dispensary Co., Ltd., 11, Market Street, SINGAPORE.

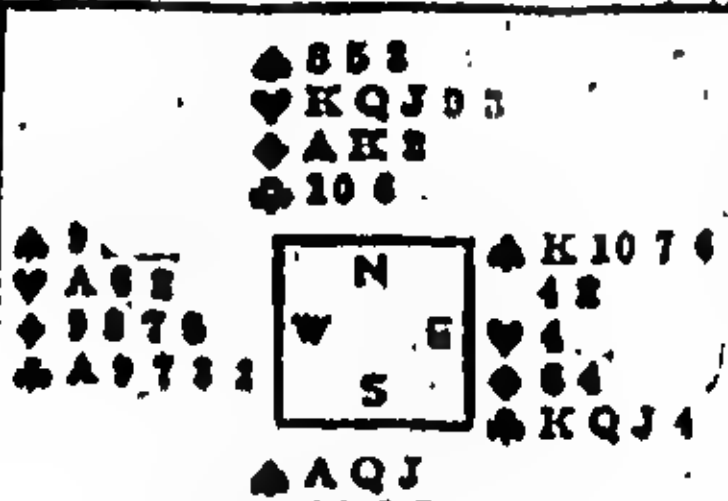

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

This is the ninth of 18 playing problems prepared by Henry P. Jaeger.

Just because you don't make your contract, it does not always signify that you have bid the hand carelessly. You may bid for game properly, yet a very fine play on the part of your opponents will defeat your contract.

Duplicate—E. and W. vul.

Opening lead—♠ K.

Dealer—North.

South West North East
1♥ Pass 4♥ Pass
2♣ Double Pass Pass

Don't belittle yourself by saying, "I bid the hand poorly." Rather say, "Nice playing on the part of the opponents." One thing you must learn—controls are an important thing in contract. Unless you use them to good advantage, they are useless.

The Play

The bidding on the hand is normal, and the opening lead is normal. If you held the West hand, would you play the seven or nine spot? If either, you would be wrong—for par on the hand is to overtake your partner's king of clubs with the ace so as to be able to return your singleton spade, even though it is right into dummy's tenace, because you have control of the trump.

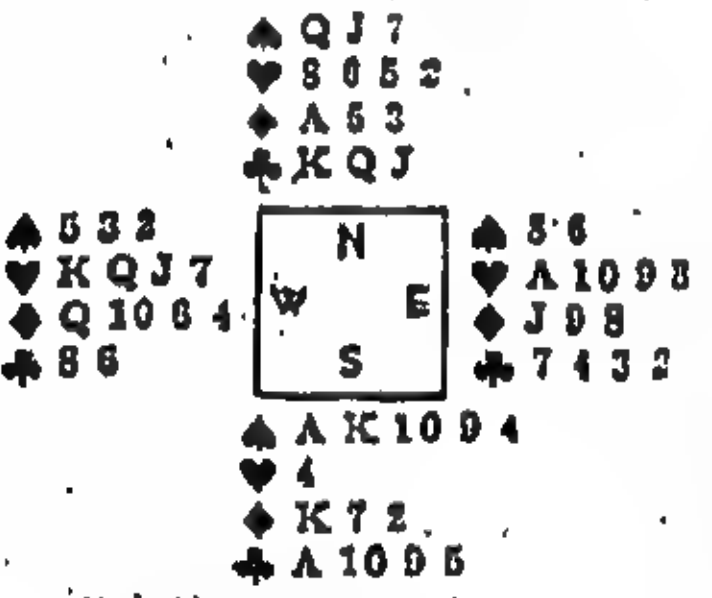

You know you are going to get into the lead on the first heart and your partner's play of the king of clubs has marked him with the queen.

When South returns a heart, you should win the trick with the ace and then lead a small club. Your partner wins the trick with the jack, returns a spade which you ruff, and that defeats the contract.

If West had waited until the second round to win the club trick, the contract could not have been defeated, because both North and South hands would have been exhausted of clubs and West would have had no re-entry into his partner's hand.

Today's Contract Problem.

Here's Henry P. Jaeger's tenth problem. South is playing the contract at six spades. West opens the king of hearts. Par on the hand is for declarer to make his contract.

Solution in next issue. 23

THE AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHER

NOTES AND QUERIES BY "EFTOO"

On Sept. 6, Mr. E. H. H. Higham has kindly consented to comment on some of the entries in the "Telegraph" competition.

As Mr. Higham is an architect and self-confessedly not a photographer, his idea of mass composition and line and perspective should be of great interest to all budding pictorialists.

This talk is under the auspices of the H. K. International Photographic Society. The talk by Mr. A. N. Betts on miniature photography will be summarised later.

PRAYER ON PAVEMENT OVER DYING MAN

Rev. "Dick" Sheppard In Tragic Scene

A crowd of people stood bare-headed in St. Martin's Lane, W.C., while the Rev. H. R. L. Sheppard knelt on the pavement and said a prayer by the side of a dying man.

The man, who had collapsed in the street, and who died in an ambulance on the way to hospital, was Mr. G. F. Davies, of Green-street, Upton Park, a director of West Ham United Football Club. Mr. Sheppard was at St. Martin-in-the-Fields where he is taking the place of the Rev. "Pat" McCormick, when he was called to Mr. Davies who collapsed near the church.

Realising that the man was gravely ill, Mr. Sheppard knelt down by his side and said a prayer. He remained with Mr. Davies and went with him in the ambulance.

LARGE RAILWAY LOAN FOR RESTORATION WORK

Peking, Aug. 24. It is learned in semi-official circles that Mr. Ko Meng-yu, Minister of Railways, who has been here for a considerable time, has completed arrangements with a Chinese banking group for a loan of $30,000,000 for the exclusive purpose of overhauling the entire line of the Peking-Hankow Railway. It is reported that a contract has been signed by both parties following long negotiations.

Mr. Ko Meng-yu will leave early next week on a tour of inspection of the Kiao-Tai Railway in Shanghai prior to his return to Nanking.—Central News.

$45,000,000 ON TRAVEL

AUSTRALIA'S BENEFIT FROM TOURISTS

Tourism is now definitely added to wool, wheat, butter and fruit as an Australian "export". According to figures just issued by the Australian National Travel Association (the counterpart of the Travel Association of Great Britain, or of European Ministries for tourism) $5,242,000 has been spent in the Commonwealth by visitors during the last five years, depression notwithstanding. New citizens have, in addition, brought $2,710,000, and overseas shipping companies have spent $9,053,000 on stores and fuel and $28,452,000 on port, harbour, stevedoring and other charges.—Austral News.

CHEAP BORROWING

London, Aug. 24. The amount applied for in tenders for £30,000,000 of Treasury bills was £59,320,000. The maximum amount was allotted in bills at three months. The average rate per cent. was 14/3.25 as compared with 15/5.6 a week ago.—British Wireless.

Six More Christmas Shopping Days

A bill to extend the Christmas shopping facilities during the two weeks immediately preceding Christmas, and also providing that friendly societies should share out their surpluses before that period, was introduced in the House of Commons recently by Mr. Hornby (Connaught, Everton).

Explaining his measure—the Christmas Facilities Bill—Mr. Hornby said that 12 shopping days immediately preceding Christmas would be affected.

The shop hours restrictions at present in operation interfered with the country's trade at a time when shopkeepers hoped to make good any deficiency in the rest of the year.

Business was most intensive for five days. Congestion took place; shops were overcrowded, and it was very difficult for shopkeepers to cope with the enormous rush of buying.

The object of the Bill was to make extra trade and employment possible. He estimated that £5,000,000 was spent in Christmas shopping.

The Bill was read a first time.

LIBEL BY WIRELESS

Shock for a Listener

The first case in the French courts concerning libel by wireless has just been dealt with at Bourges, where £50 damages have been awarded to M. Henri Claudel, a local meteorologist, against Dr. Pierre Gilbert for broadcasting a personal attack on him.

M. Claudel and Dr. Gilbert, it appears, were at daggers drawn on the subject of broadcasting, and accused one another of monopolising the microphone at the Vierzon station.

At one time they almost came to blows, but they had apparently settled their differences.

Then one day, when M. Claudel was dining with friends, they turned on their wireless set, and he was astounded to hear Dr. Gilbert deliver over the ether a violent personal attack on him.

The court held that libellous statements broadcast by wireless were just as actionable as any other form of libel, and gave judgment for M. Claudel.

$50,000,000 WORTH OF WOOL

AUSTRALIA'S NEW CLIP ESTIMATE

The Australian wool clip for the 1934-1935 season is estimated at 943,800,000 lb. or five per cent heavier than last season's. If prices hold, this should be worth more than £50,000,000, says Austral News.

Sales will open at Sydney or Brisbane on August 27th.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

IT'S FICTION, NOT WORK, THAT DESTROYS THE MACHINE—POLITICAL, MECHANICAL, COMMERCIAL, OR HUMAN.

There will be a Dinner Dance at Repulse Bay Hotel this evening and a Ten Dance at 4.30 p.m. The "Andeloniang" Band will be in attendance on these occasions.

CHEVROLET BEAUTY is no chance creation

Chevrolet engineers took a leaf from airplane design in creating the new "tear drop" lines and the "beaver tail" rear.

As a result, Chevrolet is to-day in the forefront of all cars from the standpoint of modern beauty.

The greater slope of the windshield, the shape of the windows and lower overall height all contribute to Chevrolet's fine appearance.

Now "aer-stream" styling of Bodies by Fisher reveals the most modern streamline treatment.

From the tip of its beautiful radiator back to the new "beaver tail" rear design... the New Chevrolet is a succession of pleasing lines. Every detail reflects the craftsmanship of the world's finest designers.

COUNTY CRICKET CHAMPIONSHIP ALMOST SETTLED

WOMEN'S 440 YARDS SWIMMING RECORD.

Miss H. Wolstenholme, of Moss Side S.C., retained the Women's 440 Yards Swimming title at Weston-super-Mare, in final, 60.3.5sec.—a record time for the event. Miss M. Kenyon (Nelson S.C.) was second, and Miss G. E. Morcom (Dudley) third.

W. Francis, of Renfrew A.S.C., won the 150 Yards Men's back-stroke swimming championship at Warrington, in final, 45sec. He beat J. C. P. Besford (South Manchester), five times winner, and E. W. Cross (Birkenhead), who was third.

LAWN BOWLS CHAMPIONSHIP

QUARTER-FINAL NEXT WEDNESDAY

The last of the quarter-final matches in the lawn bowls championship has been arranged for next Wednesday, when R. Duncan and D. Runjahn will meet on the Club de Recreo green at 2.15 p.m.

Immediately after this game, the draw for the semi-finals will be made.

Weather permitting, the final semi-final match between A.W. Grimmett and G.C. Moss will be played off to-morrow on the Craigengower green.

SHANGHAI LAWN BOWLS CUP

WON FOR FIRST TIME BY RECS

The Shanghai Recreation Club has on eight occasions played in the finals of the lawn bowls Mercury Cup competition—and lost.

On the Yangtzepoo greens, the Rees entered the finals for the ninth time—and won, won gloriously and overwhelmingly.

Tipping the top of this season's form the Rees marshalled a strong force on the Yangtzepoo greens, arrayed it before the Hongkong Golf club and played an unbeatable game.

Taking a comfortable lead in the early fifth end by 23 to 8 shots, the Rees followed up the initial lead by 47-24, 67-36, 95-44, and went through the end stages to win by 98 to 49 shots.

Following are the players who participated in the final:

Shanghai Recreation Club:—T. G. Main (skip), R. J. S. Brandt, A. Madar, C. R. Tanner, G. V. Jones (skip), G. Ackerman, A. J. Willis, W. T. Manley, G. H. Stormes (skip), R. Dorrance, T. Veitch, A. McLean, F. O. Madar (skip), G. N. Manley, L. Bell, R. Thompson.

Hongkong Golf Club:—C. M. Sequerra (skip), C. A. Perelra, J. J. de Souza, J. M. O. Sequerra, C. M. Maher (skip), H. A. Ozeio, C. A. Silva, A. d'Assis, J. C. d'Aquino (skip), A. G. da Costa, Alb. Costa, C. G. da Silva, J. M. B. Gutierrez (skip), A. E. Collins, C. F. Remedios, F. R. E. Silva.

HANKOW INTERPORT BOWLS TEAM

Arriving in Shanghai On September 3

The Shanghai Lawn Bowls Association have received advices from Hankow that their team will leave by the a.s. Paoow and arrive in Shanghai on Monday, September 3, in time for the opening triangular interport matches on September 4. The following compose the team:—W. J. Crooks, A. R. Eisenhut, S. J. Godwin, E. Owen, G. M. Stock and W. Cameron Wood. These are nearly all old time bowlers and the team is probably the strongest that Hankow has ever sent to Shanghai, and with the exception of Stock have all played in interport matches before.

In the second semi-final of the Association Singles Championship between A. A. Malcolm and J. Munro of the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club, the former beat his club mate by 21 shots to 15 on the 22nd end. Malcolm playing good steady bowls went ahead from the start and at one time led by 18-5 before Munro could get started properly. Then Munro got into his stride and started to knock off some of his arrears but the effort was too late, and he was beaten by a staid man, who played well all through and thoroughly deserved his win. Malcolm will now have to meet C. M. Sequerra of the Hongkong Golf Club in the final, which will be arranged later.

LANCASHIRE NEED TO DRAW TO WIN

SUSSEX STILL HAVE FAINT GLIMMER OF HOPE

YORKS MISS LAST OPPORTUNITY Lancashire have virtually won the county cricket championship.

Consequent upon their first innings success against Sussex yesterday, they now only need to avoid outright defeat in their last match against Surrey, which begins to-day to assure themselves of the title, won last year by Yorkshire.

Sussex have a faint chance. Not only must Lancashire be beaten, but Sussex must take full complement of points from Yorkshire. If this happens, Sussex will end the season with an aggregate of 253 points from 30 matches and Lancashire with 252 from the same number of matches.

There is now nobody else in the running. Yorkshire, by losing to Gloucester yesterday made farewell to their outside chances. They can, however, help Lancashire in their aspiration, by holding Sussex to a draw.

The records of the six leading teams in the championship up to and including yesterday's results follow:

Team	W	L	D	Points
Lancashire	20	12	3	252
Sussex	20	12	3	253
Warwick	20	12	3	250
Derby	20	12	3	248
Yorkshire	20	12	3	245
Kent	20	12	3	242

LANCASHIRE ON TOP.

Lancashire had all the better of their match with Sussex at Eastbourne, although the home team were not unduly strained to avoid outright defeat.

Both sides failed in their first visits to the wicket. Lancashire ed off the 141 runs for victory, losing six wickets in the process.

HEARNE'S BOWLING.

Hearne, the famous Middlesex cricketer leapt into the limelight against Surrey, when he took 6 wickets for 44 runs, and played a prominent part in the success of his side, which saw Middlesex win by nine wickets.

Surrey twice failed at the wicket. In the first innings they were dismissed for 155, Smith taking 6 for 36, and in the second they scored 192, Hearne doing the damage.

Middlesex hit up 259 in their first attempt, in spite of some praiseworthy bowling by Watts, who returned an analysis of 6 for 69. Set to score 89 to win, Middlesex knocked off the runs for the loss of one wicket.

The results and individual scores were cabled by Reuters.

SEASON DRAWS TO CLOSE

NOT MUCH MORE CRICKET

Lancashire, Kent, Essex and Somerset bring their season's county championship programmes to an end with the matches which start to-day. Northants have already finished their schedule, and the rest of the teams will bring their engagements to a close on August 29.

The matches starting to-day are:

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

Middlesex v Kent—Lord's Surrey v Lancs—Oval
Somerset v Northants—Taunton
Hants v Yorks—Bournemouth
Worcester v Leicesters—Worcester
Gloucester v Essex—Bristol

FRIENDLY.

Sussex v Australians—Hove.

ARMY FOOTBALL DISPUTE

SHIELD REPLAY INCIDENT

Calcutta, July 31.

Football enthusiasts received a shock this afternoon when it was announced that the commanding officers of the 1st King's Royal Rifle Corps and the 2nd Durham Light Infantry had notified the Indian Football Association that the teams declined to replay the final to-night of the Indian Football Association shield tournament, which is the leading contest open to all teams, civil and military, Indian and European, in India.

The K.R.R.s were leading by 2-1 when the match should have ended, but the Indian referee failed to blow the whistle, and two minutes' extra time were played in which the Durhams equalised.

To-day General Bethell formally protested to the Hon. Secretary of the Indian Football Association against the refereeing "which is of such poor class that the cumulative effect has proved inimical to military football and discipline, culminating in last night's inexplicable and unsatisfactory control of the game."

General Bethell adds that he has reported the case to the Army Sports Control Board of India, recommending that military teams be not allowed to participate in Indian Football Association championships or mixed league football until satisfied that the Indian Football Association can efficiently control the games. All the referees are Indian.

The Indian Football Association, states Reuters, has upheld the decision of the referee, Mr. P. Gupta, President of the Referees Association, who stated that he allowed an extra 64 seconds in order to compensate for wasted time.

RESULTS AT A GLANCE

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

Lancs (196 & 321-8 dec.) beat Sussex (143 & 162-2) on first inn.
Middlesex (259 & 89-1) beat Surrey (155 & 192) by nine wickets.
Kent (264 & 141-6) beat Worcester (128 & 146) by four wickets.
Gloucester (348 & 58-1) beat Yorkshire (143 & 262) by nine wickets.

Latest Davis Cup Matches

GERMANY TAKES BIG LEAD

London, Aug. 24.
The qualifying competition for the 1935 Davis Cup tournament has entered upon its last stage. To-day at Stockholm and Copenhagen, matches were started between Sweden and Holland and Germany and Denmark respectively, the winners of which will enter the competition proper next summer.

At Stockholm, Sweden and Holland shared the first two singles. Sweden took the lead when Oestberg beat Knottenbelt very comfortably in three sets. Knottenbelt was no match for his opponent who swept him off the court to win the first and second sets with the loss of one game in each, and the third after conceding four games.

H. Timmer of Holland took revenge in the next match, when he, overcame Schroeder just as easily, taking the initial set to love, the next at the tenth game and the third after losing three games.

WINNING LEAD.

At Copenhagen, Germany gained what should be a winning lead against Denmark, walking off with the opening singles.

First on the court was Henkel of Germany and Harker Jacobsen. They contested a brilliant first set which went to 24, and before Henkel broke through, and the result was the subsequent collapse of Jacobsen, who could only take two games in the second stanza, and three in the third.

Von Cramm had a much easier task against Ulrich, whom he beat without the loss of a set. The German set surrendered three games in the first set, one in the second and two in the third.

FULL SCORES.

The full scores as cabled by Reuters, were:

At Stockholm:—Oestberg (Sweden) beat Knottenbelt (Holland) 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.
H. Timmer (Holland) beat Schroeder (Sweden) 6-0, 6-4, 6-3.

At Copenhagen:—Henkel (Germany) beat Harker Jacobsen (Denmark) 13-11, 6-2, 6-3.
G. Von Cramm (Germany) beat Ulrich (Denmark) 6-3, 6-1, 6-2.

BAER THE HARDEST HITTER TO-DAY

Jack Dempsey Says He Is Better Than Any Other Champion

Camden, New Jersey.
Max Baer, the new heavyweight champion of the World, is the hardest hitter Jack Dempsey has ever seen.

The Manassas Mauler even admits that Max can hit harder than he ever could.

"When I say he hits harder than I ever hit, I mean just that," Dempsey said between bouts which he was refereeing here.

"Of all the men I've seen in action—Willard, Timney, Firpo and all of them—this boy Maxie has them all beaten for the wallop."

Dempsey believes that Steve Hannas and Art Lasky would put up the best battle against Max Baer, but he does not think that either of them could beat the champion.

Sir Frederick Wall, who recently retired from the English Football Association after many years of work, is seen here bidding good-bye to a colleague.

ENGLISH TENNIS PAIR LOSE MATCH OF 50 GAMES

ALL-AMERICAN FINAL STAMMERS-JAMES WIN TITLE

German Town, Aug. 24.
Although Miss Kathleen Stammers and Miss Freda James, the English players won the women's invitation doubles tournament here to-day by default, England sustained an unfortunate reverse in the United States Open Mixed Doubles Championship, when F. H. D. Wilde and Miss Stammers were beaten by Lester Stofen and Miss Ryan in the quarter-finals after a terrific struggle.

No less than 50 games were necessary before a decision could be reached, and so evenly matched were the pairs that at the end only two games separated them.

The Americans managed to win the first set after it had gone to fourteen games. The English couple responded by taking the second set at the tenth game, and then followed a thrilling fight for supremacy. Twelve-all was called before Stofen and Miss Ryan broke through, after which they clinched the match on service, winning the final set at 14-12.

ALL AMERICAN FINAL.

Menzel, the Czechoslovakian and V. G. Kirby, the South African, who had played so gallantly to reach the semi-final of the men's doubles championship were beaten at this stage by Wilmer Allison and Van Ryn, who snatched a four set victory.

After a promising start which saw them take the first set, Menzel and Kirby fell away before the combined onslaught of the former United States Davis Cup pair, and they lost the next three sets in quick succession, offering resistance

Helen Wills Moody Starts Training

RETURNS FROM EUROPE

London.
On her return to New York from Wimbledon, where she wrote daily articles for a leading London newspaper, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody declared that she was now going to begin training with a view to practising lawn tennis in the autumn.

Commenting upon the women's final Miss Palfrey said:—"Miss Round has learned that a strong aggressive game is the greatest weapon. It must be remembered that she was at the peak of her form when she beat Miss Jacobs."

Miss Jacobs said that she was delighted to hear that Mrs. Helen Wills Moody was thinking of returning to the courts. "There is nothing I would like more than to meet Helen again," said Miss Jacobs. "I feel that the match last year, when Mrs. Moody defaulted in the final of the American Women's championship, was not conclusive."

only in the second which they carried to the tenth game.

Miss Cruickshank and Mrs. Van Ryn defaulted against Miss Stammers and Miss James in the final of the women's invitation doubles event.

Details of the leading results of the day, as supplied through Reuters, are appended.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Twenty-seven world swimming records have been confirmed by the International Swimming Federation, most of them being held by the United States, Japan, and the Netherlands. Among the records are the following:—

400 metres, Makino, Tokyo, 4 min. 40 4/10 sec., August 14, 1933.
1,900 metres, Kusio Mura, 12 min. 42 6/10 sec., August 8, 1933.

400 metres back-stroke, Kiyotaka, 6 min. 30 4/10 sec., September 30, 1933.

100 metres breast-stroke, Dunnin, Australia, 1 min. 24 6/10 sec., February 14, 1933.

200 metres breast-stroke, Hiduko Mahaka, Tokyo, 3 min. 04 10/10 sec., September 30, 1933.

400 metres breast-stroke, Mahaka, 6 min. 24 8/10 sec., October 1, 1933.

500 metres breast-stroke, Mahaka, 8 min. 03 8/10 sec., October 1, 1933.

Kowloon Football Club Needs $4,000 For New Pavilion

An appeal for more funds to build a pavilion was made by Mr. R. Hall, who presided at the Annual General Meeting of the Kowloon Football Club which was held yesterday afternoon.

Supporting the Chairman at the meeting were Major C. M. Mannes and Mr. W. C. K. Mackie (Hon. Secretary).

In his appeal, Mr. Hall drew the attention of the meeting to the poor condition of the club-house and said that $4,000 was required to enable the committee to carry on with the scheme of putting up a new pavilion.

Mr. Hall told the meeting that he was glad to announce that the President, who left for Home some time ago to undergo a serious operation, was now on his way to complete recovery and would be leaving England for Hongkong at the end of the current month.

The Chairman, on behalf of the Club, thanked the retiring Hon. Secretary, Mr. W. C. K. Mackie for the yeoman service he had rendered to the Club during the past year. He wished Mr. Mackie, who would be going on leave next year, the best of luck and a happy holiday.

Mr. Hall announced that this year the Club had a sum of $92.78 to devote to charity. In past years they had more and had been able to contribute to Home as well as to local charities, but as this year the sum at their disposal was small, he would like to know what the meeting would like to do with the money.

Major Mannes suggested that the money be devoted to the Hongkong Benevolent Society.

This proposal was approved and passed by the meeting unanimously.

The following officers were elected for the coming year:
President: Mr. T. A. Mitchell;
Chairman: Mr. R. Hall;
Hon. Secretary: Mr. H. F. London;
Hon. Treasurer: Mr. J. P. White;
Hon. Convenor: Mr. B. M. Whitomani;
Captain of Football: Mr. J. Eastman;
Vice-Captain: Mr. A. S. Elias;
Committee: Messrs. C. M. Hall, W. C. K. Mackie, J. McKelvie, R. S. Rando, V. M. Hoar and Coleman.

Balloting Committee: Messrs. Fantham, L. Luck and G. Gurevich.

European Swimming Champions

GERMANY FINISHES FIRST

Magdeburg, Aug. 21.—At the close of the European champion swimming meet here yesterday, Germany won first place by a large margin, having garnered a total number of 118 points. Hungary came in second with 72 points and France third with 37 points.

The new European champions for both men's and women's events include Calk, Hungary, and Madame Van den Ouden, Holland, for the 100-meter crawl, Jean Paris, France and Madame Mastenbroek, Holland, for the 1,500-meter crawl; Sletas, Germany and Frauller Genenger, Germany, for the 200-meter breast stroke; Belford, England, and Madame Mastenbroek, Holland, for the 100-meter backstroke.

The fast-playing Hungarian team won the water polo championship.

THREE TROPHIES TO LONDON ROWERS

Win Honours At Molesey Amateur Regatta

London.—The London Rowing Club won three trophies—the Senior Eights Cup, the Senior Fours, and the Junior-Senior Sculls—at Molesey Amateur Regatta, thereby atoning somewhat for their disappointing display at Henley.

In the final of the Senior Eights Cup they beat Thames R. C. by three-quarters of a length. Time: five minutes, seven seconds.

In the Senior Fours they beat Reading R. C. by one length, and their representative in the Junior-Senior Sculls, P. H. Jackson, beat F. H. Thomas (Quintin R. C.) by one and a quarter lengths. Time: six minutes, 35 seconds.

Joe E. Brown and Ginger Rogers, as they appear together in "You Said a Mouthful". Brown's latest picture which starts a run at the Alhambra Theatre to-morrow.

"BOY" CHARLTON TO SWIM AGAIN?

Canberra.—Andrew ("Boy") Charlton, the Australian Olympic swimmer, who has been out of competitive swimming for the last two years, told representatives of the Canberra Swimming Club that he had fulfilled his ambition to represent Australia three times in international contests, but now felt he would like to represent it a fourth time. Charlton who has accepted a position with a chemist in Canberra, hopes to be available to compete in the Australian Swimming Championships, next year.

KEEPING MIND ON THE BALL

Old Idea Of The Eye Fallacy

London, Aug. 20.—Dr. Louis Jacques, Director of Optometric Research of Iowa State Congress, stated at the 37th Annual Congress of the American Optometric Association, at Toronto, that it was a physical impossibility for golfers to "keep their eye on the ball" but "keep your mind on the ball" was the real advice that should be offered. "If your eyesight is good," he explained, "you are inevitably going to see extraneous objects on the END OF FEUD?

ENGLAND AND IRELAND REUNION NEAR

Dublin, Aug. 24.

There are strong hopes that the long-standing friction between the Irish Free State and England may be drawing to a close, and that an amicable settlement of the Land Annuities' question will pave the way for a general policy of co-operation.

The Anphoblacht, weekly official organ of the extreme section of Irish Republicanism, states that President De Valera is considering the resumption of negotiations with England in which the latter's right to the land annuities will be waived.

If there is a satisfactory settlement reached in these negotiations it will keep Ireland within the Empire, the paper states.

The majority of the Free State Cabinet favours a settlement on these lines, and intermediaries have already made several journeys between Dublin and London with this end in view.—Reuter.

golf course, but if you let the sight of these objects influence your mind, the same unfortunate effects follow as occur when you are popularly supposed to have taken your eye off the ball."

AMAH'S FATAL FALL

ATTEMPTED LEAP FROM CAR IN NATHAN ROAD

Sitting as Coroner without a jury, at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon, Mr. J. H. B. Lee returned a verdict of "Death by Misadventure" at the conclusion of an inquiry into a death of an amah named Ah Ying, employed by E. J. Porter, of Gloucester Building.

The woman died as the result of wounds received when she fell out of motor car No. 891 near the Alhambra Theatre in Nathan Road on August 14.

Mr. Porter testified that he was driving his car, a Willys 77-Saloon, from Kowloon Tong towards Tsimshatsui on the day in question, with his sister, Mrs. Ray, sitting beside him. The amah, Ah Ying, was sitting at the back. When they got to the Alhambra Theatre he happened to look back and saw the amah opening the door.

Knowing that his sister could not reach the amah in time, witness put out his hand to stop her from opening the door.

His attention was drawn back to the road and when he looked round again the amah was not in the car. He pulled up at once, and found her lying on the road some yards back. She was bleeding from the head and he immediately took her to the Kowloon Hospital, where she later died.

Corroborative evidence was given by Mrs. Ray. After medical evidence was given, a verdict of "Death by Misadventure" was returned.

EVA AVENGES EVE

DES VOEUX ROAD SERPENT FALLS BY WAYSIDE

Yesterday, "Eva" tempted the serpent!

No one knows how the serpent—a black snake twenty inches long—got into Des Voeux Road. Nor will the serpent be able to tell, for, in attempting to cross the intersection in the face of "Eva's" flashing red eye, he was run over and killed by a motor car.

He was half way across the road from the direction of the Gloucester Building when the oncoming car crushed him.

A sympathetic crowd gathered around, while the motorist, blissfully unconscious of the fact that he had turned the Garden of Eden tables, proceeded on his way.

GREAT PYRAMID AS PROPHET

CLERGYMAN WHO SEES NEW WAR IN 1936

A well-known writer on Biblical and Pyramid prophecy, the Rev. Walter Wynn, prophesies another great war in 1936.

He claims that the Great Pyramid can truly be described as "The Bible in Stone."

His argument is that, using the "inch-for-the-year-or-month" measurement, it gives the exact length of the Israelite bondage, the date of Our Lord's birth, and that of His death, the hour of the day when Britain entered the war in 1914; and the day when war closed.

Then, by means of what is called the ante-chamber, it supplies a perfect symbolic history of events since November 11, 1918, to May 28-29, 1928.

"At that point," he writes, "we enter what is called the Second Low Passage. This extends to September 16, 1936."

This shows, he claims, that only changes for the worse are probable, for everything points to a crescendo of tribulation due to culminate, in 1936, in another great war.

He believes that the world is indeed heading for "great tribulation," but beyond it he sees a world reconstructed, made of material due to workmanship that shall bring to weary humanity a New Earth.

TRADE RIVALRY

JAPAN'S BID FOR NEW BUSINESS

London, Aug. 24.

In connection with the new Japanese shipping subsidy it is understood that the Nippon Yusen Kaisha is proposing to place several fast, combined cargo and passenger liners on the European route. There are too many vessels plying between Far East and European ports which are obsolete and slow.

The N.Y.K. will also increase its vessels on the Japan to San Francisco run, in view of the growing demand for both cargo and passenger space on this trade lane.

It is understood that America has definitely refused to discuss subsidies with the International Chamber of Shipping Conference in London in October.

America is willing to discuss the question of surplus tonnage, but shipping circles do not anticipate any very great results or benefits from this direction.—Reuter.

NEW FORD V.8 TRUCK

Built for Hardest Truck Service!

Full-Floating Axle!

The new full-floating rear axle permits removal of the axle shaft without jacking up the wheels. The entire weight of the truck and load is supported by the axle housing, leaving the axle shaft entirely free to transmit power from the engine to the rear wheels.

STRONGER WHEELS

Newly designed, stronger, sturdier wheels with 5-inch and 6-inch rims, interchangeable with dual wheel equipment, are used.

SEMI-ELLIPTIC REAR SPRINGS

Because of the true torque tube drive, no driving stresses are placed on the springs, permitting free-shackling at both ends. Front suspension is provided by a special heavy-duty transverse spring which gives the front axle free play under the chassis. Both front and rear Ford suspension reduces unsprung weight and frame distortion is minimized.

NEW DESIGN BELL HOUSING

The conical shaped differential housing is heavily ribbed and axle housings are materially strengthened, giving added support to the weight of the truck and load.

STRADDLE MOUNTED PINION

Misalignment of the driving pinion is prevented by straddle mounting it between two heavy-duty roller bearings.

HEAVY DUTY FRAME

The heavy, long frame is seven inches deep and is made of high carbon pressed steel with heavy webs and flanges. This entire frame is especially designed to stand up under the most severe punishment of load and road.

TORQUE TUBE DRIVE

All Ford V-8 trucks and commercial cars feature the exclusive full torque tube drive that has no slip joints. In this type of drive, the vehicle is driven by a torque tube and radius rods, instead of through the rear springs. This system leaves the rear springs free to do just one job—to give adequate support to the body and load, and cushion against road shocks.

DRIVE AND COUPLING SHAFT

Strength with low weight is obtained and full engine power transmitted smoothly at all speeds by means of a short tubular drive shaft between coupling shaft and rear axle.

HEAVY-DUTY TRANSMISSION

The heavy-duty four-speed transmission of the new Ford V-8 truck has all forward speed gears running on roller and ball bearings, saving power, reducing wear, and prolonging life.

STEERING

Positive control of front wheels and easy steering are assured by the 17 to 1 ratio of the heavy-duty truck steering gear and allows a short turning radius. Worm-and-sector type steering is used.

V-8 Power!

The new Ford V-8 truck engine is designed to give the power and speed that modern haulage demands and give it efficiently and economically.

TRUCK RADIATOR

The radiator is a large tube and fin truck-type with three rows of tubes and closely spaced fins, giving ample cooling capacity under most severe conditions of load and weather.

MAGISTRATE ERRS

REPROOF FROM CHIEF JUSTICE AT SESSIONS

Criticism of Magisterial routine was made by the Chief, Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor, during an impasse in yesterday's murder trial at the Criminal Sessions.

The accused was Cheung Chak, of about 35 years of age, and he pleaded not guilty of the murder of Wong Sz-mui, a female, of 1 Wong Chuk Street, by causing her to fall from the second floor verandah at that address on June 6.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, represented the Crown, and Mr. D. McNeill, instructed by Mr. W. Keith Robinson, of Messrs. T'so & Hodgson, appeared for the defence.

During the cross-examination of Lai Tong-kong who said he identified Wong So as chasing the accused, Mr. McNeill elicited from him the remark that he had identified the woman at the Magistrate's "because he had read it was her in the newspapers."

Mr. McNeill said witness had given his evidence before this appeared in the newspapers.

Deposition Error.

When the depositions were looked up it was discovered that the original note was "I recognise the woman," and the typescript copy read "I recognised the woman."

His Lordship: I hope steps will be taken to draw the attention of the Magistrates to the very grave necessity of exercising scrupulous and personal care in this matter. I am not accustomed, I may say, elsewhere, to find the certifying of depositions done by anybody but a Magistrate, under his own hand. I hope, in future, this will be done, and that this Court can rely on the certified depositions implicitly. This discrepancy might have done irreparable harm to the accused person. In this case it has put the three of us in a quandary.

Mr. Fraser: I am afraid I relied on that in my opening.....

His Lordship: In that case you stand acquitted. (Laughter).

The Crown has not yet closed its case, the evidence and cross-examination being very protracted.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT KLIM

"TAI MO SHAN" AND A FEW OTHERS.

The gallant naval officers who recently completed their voyage to England on the yacht "Tai Mo Shan" took with them a supply of Klim at Hongkong prior to commencement of the voyage—Klim is a real boon to voyagers. You have a veritable dairy with you when you have Klim.

A tin of Klim which was opened at a store in an out-port was found to be in perfect condition. It had been tucked away on a shelf for upwards of two years!—The special vacuum processed tin, aided by the fact that Klim is practically devoid of moisture, enables it to stay fresh for an indefinite period in the unopened can.

When we say that Klim is the largest selling brand of Powdered whole milk in the Far East, we do not mean it as an idle boast. It is a fact and can be verified. Klim has thousands of satisfied users. Young and old take it.

Klim is very easily mixed. Put the powder on top of the water (hot or cold) and beat for a few seconds. An egg whip is the best for this purpose.

Klim is a product of the world famous Borden Co. And it comes to you from their plant at Toronto, Canada, where you have the finest pasture lands in the world.

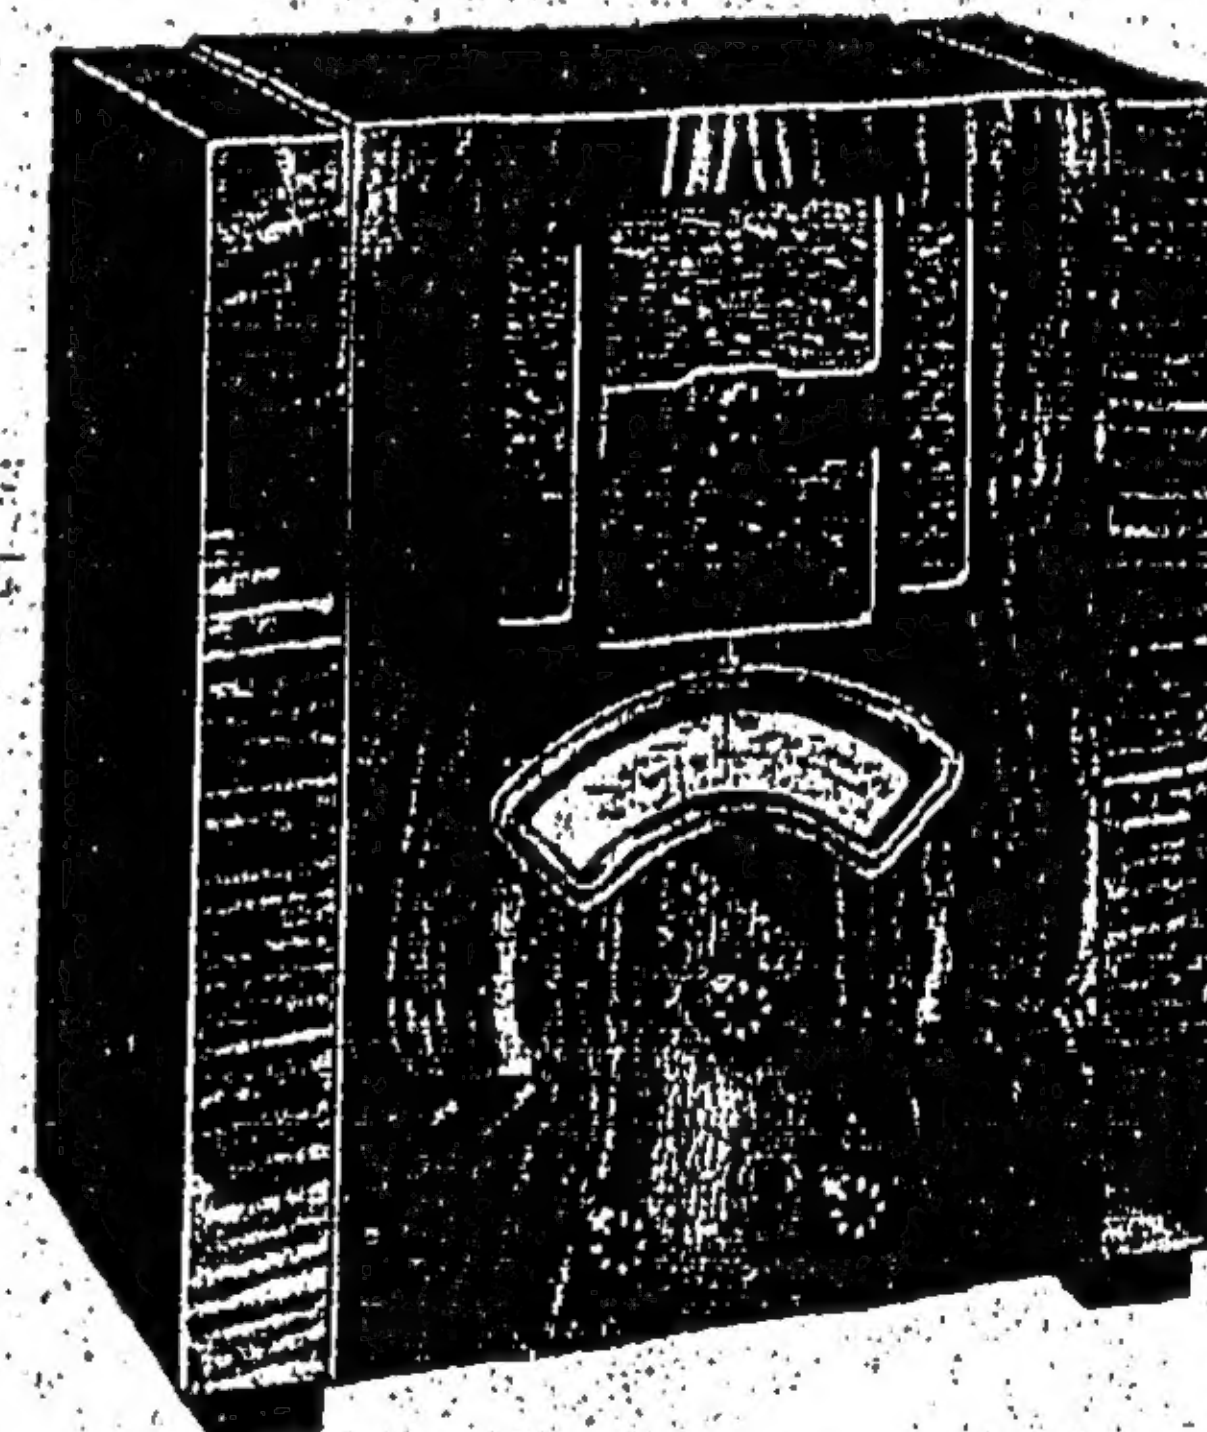

If you have not tried Klim before, would you like to sample it? Write, or drop in at the office of Siemssen & Co. the local agents, 4th floor, Kaiming Building (opposite the St. Francis Hotel) and we will gladly hand you a trial tin.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

ANTI-INFLATIONARY NEWS

The following reports on the New York stock market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz: The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's markets:—Stocks were generally upward in spite of the light volume. Packings gained, due to continued increase in hog prices. Rails were higher based on Mr. Raymond Moley's remarks being interpreted as reflecting the Government's intention to somewhat benefit carriers. Utility issues improved, following unexpectedly better earnings by leading steel companies. Liquor shares have followed the trend of the market. Buying on the Curb Exchange was renewed and stocks were boosted in the final hour. Packing and utility issues rallied after profit-taking. Bonds were irregularly higher. United States Government issues firmed up, due to continued Gold exports. Corporation issues, generally, followed Government bonds. There was increased Eastern buying of Corn. Other grains followed Corn. S. C. & F. New York office cable:—The stock market was dull, but higher in all divisions, particularly utilities and packing issues. News is lacking. Washington news is mostly anti-inflationary in view of September re-financing by the Treasury. Secretary Henry Morgenthau of the Treasury Department denies that further currency devaluation is contemplated. Local circles expect a moderate amount of Gold exports. Other news is of little influence. Eastman Kodak's half-year earnings totalled $2.51 per share, against $1.84 per share last year. General Railway & Signal showed a loss of $277,000 for the half-year, against profit of $220,200 last year. Federal Reserve member bank balances are now at a new peak. Weekly Broker's loans are off $11,000,000. Business done:—750,000.

CAR DRIVER'S ADVENTURE

HOLD-UP ON ISLAND ROAD

MAN ARRESTED

Somewhat similar circumstances as attended the hold-up of a taxi driver at Samshupo the other day by two men who engaged his vehicle at the Jordan Ferry wharf, are associated with another affair which occurred on the Island Road at Tytam shortly after midnight. A Chinese has been arrested and the indications are that investigations in the latest case may also clear up the identity of the other as well.

A public car driver, Kong Kiu, was stopped by two men in Des Voeux Road about 12.35 this morning, and was given instructions to proceed to Aberdeen. There the car stopped while one of the passengers alighted, but returned a few minutes afterwards after "having seen a friend" as he told the driver, who was ordered to return to Hongkong by way of Shau-kiwan.

Near "Brinville" residence, at Tytam, the driver found himself in a vice-like grip as the passenger in the back seat reached forward and clutched his neck. The car swerved dangerously, and as it backed, the driver who had been struggling violently, fell to the ground. The car now being steered by the other man, drove off.

The driver did not realise that the man with whom he struggled had also dropped out of the car. He rushed to Tai Tam Villas and was on the point of telephoning to Police when this same man unexpectedly turned up, and was immediately seized by the driver with the assistance of the servants in the Villa. He had discarded a white suit and was in a Chinese soldier's uniform which he had previously worn underneath, but for all this quick change in an attempt at disguise, it is claimed by the driver that he was the man with whom he was engaged in a desperate struggle in the car.

It remained for the erstwhile victim to frogmarch his captive triumphantly to the Stanley Police Station. A search was then made for the car and the other man, probably also dressed in a soldier's uniform: who had abandoned his companion and driven off in the car. The vehicle was subsequently found abandoned in Lockhart Road.
